

TORONTO POLICE BLOCK COMMUNIST MEETING

Families Move From Path of Port Haney Fire

Blaze Menaces Camp Buildings of Abernethy-Lougheed Company; Workers Move Donkey Engines and Rolling Stock to Safety; Falling Barometer Brings Hope for Control of 150 Fires in Southern Interior.

Port Haney, Aug. 14.—As a precautionary measure all women and children who had been staying at Camp 9 of the Abernethy-Lougheed Logging Company Limited, eight miles north of here, have been moved to safety. The forest fire now covers 1,200 acres.

The company has thrown a cordon of 180 loggers along a line extending from both sides of where the logging bridge crosses the creek. This line has set several backfires afloat successfully, and the men are concentrating efforts to save valuable timber standing behind them.

Six huge donkey engines and other rolling stock have been moved to safety; but the high lead lines have been destroyed where the men were working recently. It was impossible to move them in time.

The camp buildings are still menaced, but forestry officials say that a heavy rain might save them.

SAVE MILL AND YARDS
Mission, Aug. 14.—Mill workers and firefighters are vying to-day after a terrific fight with the forest fire that has swept over 400 acres eight miles north of here. P. E. Osborne's sawmill and yards which were stacked high with valuable lumber Tuesday night. The flames had encircled the mill and yards, but were fought back with pumps and hoses after several hours' battle.

This fire is held meantime by fireguards on the east and west sides. There is plenty of water on the north boundary, but the flames are creeping south.

FRASER VALLEY FIRES
Vancouver, Aug. 14.—Although doing little damage and not endangering settlements, thirteen fires covering 4,000 acres are burning in Fraser Valley municipalities, according to W. R. Flumerfelt, assistant district forester in charge of fire protection, who has returned from a tour of inspection. Most of the fires are in Langley and another is burning about a mile from White Rock.

Spreading slowly through bracken and logged-off timber, the fire is responsible for great clouds of smoke, but, as yet, according to forestry officers, they are not dangerous because they are not throwing off sparks. There is more smoke than fire, they say.

Municipal officials are watching the outbreaks and are giving assistance where needed.

No fires were discovered by Mr. Flumerfelt east of Matsui.

UNDER CONTROL IN MANITOBA
Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—Forest fires in Northern Manitoba and the Kenora district of Ontario were reported under control to-day as a result of rains which fell during the night and the night and day struggle of forest rangers and volunteer fighters. Northern Manitoba received fairly heavy showers, and the Kenora district reported light rains. In Northern Manitoba no new outbreaks have occurred, and the fires still burning are in slashings and brush. The situation has improved to such an extent that it is now believed there is little likelihood of further threat to important timber stands and settlements.

A number of blazes around the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora were under control, but a high wind would create a serious situation. Four separate fires are burning near Reddick, Ont., but a large force of men is keeping them in check.

TWO WOMEN DIE IN ONTARIO CRASH
Windsor, Ont., Aug. 14.—Two young Hamtramck Mich. women are dead, the mother of one is dying and a Kingsville man is in a hospital in a serious condition as the result of an automobile collision near Old Castle early to-day. The Americans were en route home from Schenectady, N.Y. The dead are: Miss Marion Kilinsky, twenty, who was driving one car, and Miss Stella Wuzhowski, twenty-one. Mrs. Pauline Kilinsky is dying and Theodore Maxwell, Kingsville, driver of the other car, is in a critical condition.

Cotton Strike Settlement Is Long Way Off
Manchester, Eng., Aug. 14.—Settlement of the great Lancashire cotton strike still seemed a long way off to-day, although the situation was improved by agreement of the spinners to accept the principle of arbitration.

Meanwhile more than 500,000 work throughout Lancashire are nearing the end of their third weekless week in refusing to work under the twelve and one-half per cent reduction in wages announced by employers on July 29.

RUSSIANS AND CHINESE CLASH IN MANCHURIA

Mukden, Manchuria, Aug. 14.—The governor of Kirin to-day reported that Chang Hsueh-liang, Governor of Manchuria, and Russians began hostilities against each other yesterday.

On the eastern front he reported 300 marines with two aeroplanes from gunboats on the Sungari River, occupied two small towns, while on the western front, Nordon, near Manchuli, which is in Manchuria, was occupied.

GOLDEN FLOOD OF LIGHT POURS FROM CATHEDRAL

Wonderful Illuminating System Given First Test Last Night

Great Rose Window Installed This Week, Completing Stained Glass Gifs

Broad spreading fans of golden light last night gleamed through the beautiful cathedral glass of the lofty triple windows of the new Christ Church Cathedral, when tests of the wonderful illuminating system were undertaken for the first time.

Recessed in niches, set above the array of massive pillars which line the nave of the great edifice, twenty-six flood light, and presents a remarkable sight when the rays of the setting sun strike through the multitude of colors.

ROSE WINDOW IN PLACE
Another notable advance in the progress of the new cathedral has been made this week with the glazing of the magnificent west rose window. Commencing on Monday, workmen have almost completed this task only a few of the smallest pieces remaining to be set in place. The window is a gorgeous creation of the glass-workers' art, and presents a remarkable sight when the rays of the setting sun strike through the multitude of colors.

All the presentation stained glass windows are now in place, the scaffolding is being dismantled and installation of the organ is expected to be commenced in a few days.

ELKS CONVENE AT KAMLOOPS

Mayor Moffatt Welcomes Delegates at Grand Lodge Opening To-day

Kamloops, Aug. 14.—The Grand Lodge of the B.P.O. Elks, seventeenth annual convention, Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland, opened this morning at 10 o'clock, Mayor W. J. Moffatt welcoming the gathering on behalf of the city.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon was staged, when the convention in a body marched to the cenotaph and placed a floral wreath in memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. The parade was led by the 172nd R.M.R. band.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon was held in the Masonic Hall and in compliment to the convention, the Rotary Club members cancelled their luncheon and attended in a body. In the afternoon a picnic and sports programme was held at Paul Lake, whose brilliant setting appealed to the visitors.

The city is profusely decorated, small business firms and stores vying with each other in a lavish display of Elks colors. Purple is everywhere and at night this is extended to the electric signs.

'COUGAR ALARM' BRINGS POLICE SQUAD RUSHING

But Big "Panther" at Aerodrome Turns Out to Be Lost Alsatian Dog

Squad With Rifles Stalk Animal in Ditch Crossing Shelbourne Street

Police officers jumped to their motorcycle saddles and others snatched up death-dealing weapons when a general "cougar" alarm reached headquarters this morning shortly before 10 o'clock.

Speeding eastward through the residential area of the city, the cougar squad reached the Lansdowne aerodrome, where an animal was reported, within a few minutes and immediately set to work to hunt it down.

W. Robinson, 3024 Highway Road, who is engaged in ditch work at a point on Shelbourne Street near the field, declared the animal had appeared within a few feet of him and scared him.

RIFLES OUT
Constable Henry Jones, who headed the hunting party with a wicked-looking rifle, decided to traverse the ditch from end to end and rout the animal out. Aided by Motorcycle Officers S. Dunnell and N. G. Griffiths, he proceeded to put the plan into operation.

While scouting around the officers met two boys who were looking for a dog they had lost in the neighborhood. A few minutes later a big animal leaped from the bushes near the ditch and retreated into the trench. The posse followed after it.

GREETED HIS MASTER
On nearing the spot, the animal, a big Alsatian police dog, recognized its owner and came out to greet him. The boys put the dog on a leash and took it home.

The police squad was not looking for dogs, however. Cougars were their prey, and after the dog was caught, there seemed to be no cougars in the vicinity and, rather disappointed, the squad came back to town.

A BIG DOG
The dog had been lost for a week and was gaunt and hungry. Black in color, with a large, built, it is nearly as big as a cougar.

"Whatever it was, it certainly gave me a scare," said Mr. Robinson. "As soon as I saw it, I moved fast. It caught a glimpse of the animal turning round. He seemed pretty big to me."

Anyway, that cougar certainly led a dog's life, and one of the gathered smart lads who had gathered in the neighborhood to watch the big hunt.

FIVE DAYS TO FAIR OPENING

Elaborate Attractions and Varied Exhibits Promise to Draw Record Numbers

But five days remain now before the curtain will be lifted on the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows to reveal a show more charged with exhibition atmosphere than has ever been presented in Victoria before.

Growing success of the show in recent years is believed by fair officials to be justification for increased expenditures to add to the attractiveness of the exhibition this year.

It had been under consideration for several years to have one great outstanding show again be the venue for many of the eastern fairs, and this year the opportunity was seized to book the New York Winter Garden Revue which has been a feature of the biggest fairs in the west for the last two years. It means bringing to Victoria extensive equipment for the erection of a big outdoor theatre with special lighting effects and a variety of other features.

GRAND CHAMPIONSHIP
L. A. Lewis, New Westminster beat H. G. Wilson, Victoria, 5 and 4. J. R. Sillit, Seattle, beat Joshua Green, Seattle, 1 up.

Judge Riggs, Tacoma, beat J. W. Morris, Victoria, 1 up.

(Concluded on Page 19)

LITTLE JOE

YOU SELDOM MISS YOUR TARGET WHEN YOU AIM AT NOTHING.

As the fair date draws near more and more excitement is being felt in the fair-ground. Exhibits space is taking form. Poultry fanciers, goat and rabbit breeders have been looking over the quarters and competition in these sections which again be the venue for many of the eastern fairs, and this year the opportunity was seized to book the New York Winter Garden Revue which has been a feature of the biggest fairs in the west for the last two years. It means bringing to Victoria extensive equipment for the erection of a big outdoor theatre with special lighting effects and a variety of other features.

Passengers On Zep's Hop Around World

Magellans of the air, these six persons boarded the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst, N.J., for its 25,000-mile globe-circling cruise. At the top, left to right, are Lieut. Jack C. Richardson of St. Louis, Mo., assigned to the Lakehurst Naval Air Station; Lady Grace Drummond-Hay, who crossed last fall on the dirigible's first flight to America; C. P. Burgess, civilian expert on the naval bureau of aeronautics. Below, left to right, Sir George Hubert Wilkins, explorer; Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, another who made the first flight with the Graf; William B. Leeds, millionaire husband of the former Princess Xenia.

The passengers were ordered to enter the gondola at 4 o'clock to-morrow morning.

FINAL PREPARATIONS
Final preparations were made to-day for the Graf Zeppelin, mighty German dirigible, to take off before dawn to-morrow for Tokyo in continuation of its round-the-world flight.

The Zeppelin's five engines were gone over once again, a last inspection was given the fabric which closes its rigid frame-work. Food supplies and the ship's cargo of mail were stowed away and a final check-up made of every element.

The twenty passengers, who with a crew of forty officers and men, will be aboard the Zeppelin, already have gathered here from all parts of Europe. They were happy at the present prospect of getting away to-morrow.

No one seemed to fear the outcome of the trip, or to contemplate it with any emotion other than enjoyment.

ONE MASCOT
There will be only one official mascot aboard the Zeppelin, Captain Hans von Schiller said, remarking: "Some friend of the Zeppelin in New York gave us an amusing looking bluebird—I suppose it is a blue heron—with its long legs encased in enormous shoes which put it all over the ordinary movie comedian."

"Knutte Eckerker added to its imitable appearance by putting dark rimmed spectacles on its nose. It now looks indeed as if it were the airship's sage."

The mascot was to be seen perched in one of the front windows of the control gondola, musingly watching the scenes ahead.

Duncan Farmstead Destroyed and Big Bush Fire Started

Special to The Times
Duncan, Aug. 14.—Fire which broke out at L. F. Solly's farm, near Westport, yesterday afternoon, caused the entire loss of one of the barns and one of the cottages, occupied by J. Jackson, one of Mr. Solly's employees. No stock was lost.

No one had been near the cottage for some time and there was no fire in it. The sun's rays on a bottle is thought to be the cause.

The fire has now spread to the bush behind the property and men are fighting it. The British Columbia Forestry Department has rushed a big gang to the district.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Mounted, foot and motorcycle police last night nipped a Communist meeting in the bud. The police did not stand on ceremony, but used their fists and batons freely.

In the crowds of several thousand persons in the park, it was impossible to say how many were Communists, but the great majority of them were ordinary citizens enjoying a little fresh air on a fine summer evening and curious people attracted by the announcement of a Communist meeting and the prospect of a scrap.

SIGNAL FOR ACTION
The signal for vigorous action on the part of the police was the gathering of a little group in the east side of the park, in the centre of which was Jack Macdonald, leader of the Communist Party in Canada. Several men and women were walking with him.

Suddenly the police in uniform, who had been stationed about the park, rushed in that direction. Dozens of plainclothes men hitherto inconspicuous in the crowd, sprang into activity.

SCURRY FOR EXITS
Men, women and children scurried to the roadway, where they were met by a solid stream of motor cars, which made crossing impossible. They jostled one another on the curb, with the police behind and the packed roadway in front, until officers stopped the stream of cars and hustled the frightened pedestrians through.

Macdonald was singled out for special attention by the police, according to witnesses, being beaten and kicked as he was run out of the park. There were many reports of violence by the police in clearing the park from a number of persons, who declared they were not Communists and were set upon by the police apparently because they had not moved fast enough.

ACTION DRAWS CRITICISM
Toronto, Aug. 14.—Leaders of organized labor in Toronto who do not countenance the communists are to-day outspoken in their criticism of the force and violence reported to have been used by Toronto police in preventing a communist meeting in Queen's Park last night. Six persons were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct.

"I think, myself, that the police are very foolish in their methods of dealing with the communists," said S. J. McMaster, president of the Toronto District Labor Council.

"They are really aiding and abetting the communists and, in a way, making martyrs of them."

"We are generally opposed, I think, to the use of force by the police," said J. Gillanders, president of the Buildings Trades Council. "It only aids the spread of communism. Non-suppression would be more effective than the repression that is practiced," he said.

APPEAL TO COMMISSION
"It was unthinkable, awful," Thomas Leader told a meeting of the Earlscourt Labor Party, which passed a resolution addressed to the Board of Police Commissioners protesting against the methods and actions of Chief D. C. Draper's force.

"First speech must be enjoyed," the resolution said, "and we wish to complain about such things as have been occurring between police and communists in the past few weeks."

Denying reports that peaceful citizens had been injured when police-men afoot, mounted and on motorcycles cleaned the park, Chief Draper said: "These communists are simply playing for publicity."

VETERAN ACTRESS HAS LEADING ROLE AT THE DOMINION

One of the most interesting portrayals in "Eternal Love," now at the Dominion Theatre for the last time to-day the Ernst Lubitsch production in which John Barrymore stars for United Artists, is that of Evelyn Scobie, veteran character actress.

Although she is famous chiefly as a character actress, it is not generally known that Miss Scobie was at one time a leading woman for some of the noted stars of former years. She was the original "Broncho Billy" girl when Gilbert Anderson was at the height of his fame in westerns.

In "Eternal Love," she is a member of Barrymore's brilliant supporting cast that includes Camilla Horn, Victor Varconi, Hobart Bosworth, Mona Rico, Bodil Roosing and many others.

INDIAN CHANTS ARE HEARD IN PICTURE HERE AT COLISEUM

Heard over the "talkie" machine at the Coliseum Theatre this week in conjunction with the feature picture "Redskin," starring Richard Dix, are several Indian dirges, chants and choruses, given by the braves and their squaws as they celebrate a funeral, wedding or feast day.

The theme song of the picture is "Redskin" and is a haunting, plaintive melody sung with sweetness and feeling for the love of two Indians for each other. One, Wing Foot, of the Navajo tribe, is in love with Corn Blossom of the Pueblo tribe, but the wars between the two tribes keeps them apart for many years, although through these years their love has been staunch and sincere. Richard Dix, star of that great picture "The Vanishing American," has the title role of Wing Foot in this excellent picture which is a story of the Indians in Arizona. A number of the scenes are done in color and the wonderful hues of the sky and mountains of this colorful state are well reproduced.

ing feature starring Richard Barthelmess at the Capitol Theatre for the last time to-night, was born in Colorado Springs, Colo., and educated at Salt Lake City, Nevada.

Miss Day entered pictures with her sister, Marceline, several years ago and got her initial screen experience in Mack Bennett comedies. Two years ago she was made a Wampas Baby Star in recognition of her talents and promise.

Miss Day plays the role of Richard Barthelmess's wife in "Drag"—the wife who prefers to cling to a parasitic family rather than to her husband, and so drags him down until he balks and wins success and happiness.

In addition to Miss Day the supporting cast includes Lila Lee, Lucien Littlefield, Katherine Ward, Margaret Fielding, Tom Dugan and others. Frank Lloyd directed "Drag" from a novel by William Dudley Pelley.

Archduke Leopold of Austria. Broderick O'Parrell, Anton Vaverka, Les Bates, Howard Davies and Henry Barrows were among the featured players and notables who enacted mere "atmosphere" roles in Universal's stupendous production of Victor Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs," which is now at the Columbia Theatre. No expense was spared to make the picture perfect to the smallest detail.

Tom Mix, the cowboy star of the William Fox motion picture forces, now at the Playhouse Theatre in "Rough Riding Romance," is particularly blessed in the selection of his chief feminine support. Mix's leading lady in this picture is Juanita Hansen. She is widely known in photoplay circles and is a petite blonde whose athletic pastime is swimming. In this way she keeps in trim for her part in Mix stunts.

This training was very valuable to Miss Hansen in "Rough Riding Romance," in which, as a Balkan princess, she takes part in some of those thrilling escapades that make this play extraordinary, even for Tom Mix.

COLLIERY ASKS LARGER RIGHTS

Development of Puntledge River Power Is Forecast in Application

An application by the Wellington Colliery Company for permission to extend the territory into which it may distribute power to include lands in the E. and N. Railway belt between Duncan and Union Bay, has been filed with the Comptroller of Water Rights for the Province.

Back of the application, it is intimated, may lie the suggested conversion of the existing steam and Diesel power plants at Nanaimo and Duncan into hydro-electric units, to serve an increased area on modified rates.

The source of the development is the Puntledge River, said to be capable of power expansion to a total capacity of some 27,000 horsepower. The name of the Canadian Utilities Company is being mentioned in connection with negotiations said to be taking place at this time, in regard to Puntledge River power possibilities.

The application seeks leave to amend the original certificate granted to the Wellington Colliery Company in such a way as to permit of service to a greatly increased territory. It will be argued before Comptroller of Water Rights for the Province.

STRIKERS RIOT IN NEW ORLEANS

City Commissioners Mobbed and Street Cars Attacked

New Orleans, Aug. 13 (A.P.)—Determined to maintain peace in the street car strike after a day of riotous disorders in which four city commissioners were mobbed by union sympathizers in the council chamber, the commission last night instructed Theodore Ray, superintendent of police, to augment the police force with any number of officers necessary, and clamp the law down on "jitneys" and motor buses.

The jitney drivers, hundreds of whom are furnishing transportation in the strike, were given until Thursday noon to comply with the city ordinance requiring from each a $5,000 indemnity bond out to the city.

WILD MEETING

Yesterday's howling mob of some 500 persons in and about the city hall were spurred by their leaders into assault on the commissioners and later attacks on street cars when Acting-Mayor T. Semmes Wainwright sought to adjourn a wild meeting of the council.

The bruised and battered city commissioners conferred after the riots with Judge Rufus E. Foster, of the U.S. Circuit Court, and announced that an effort would be made to fix complete responsibility for the riots and mete out justice to the guilty.

Dealing swift punishment to the rioters under the terms of the Federal Court injunction, protecting the street car property, Judge Foster, acting for Judge Wayne G. Borah in the court, yesterday sentenced five participants to terms of from thirty days to six months in jail.

A brother, R. Allen, resides at Kinsella, Sask.

Port Haney Farm Carries Jersey Bull Championship at Vancouver Fair

Vancouver, Aug. 14.—D. Spencer's farm at Port Haney won the Jersey bull championship at Vancouver Exhibition yesterday. Bowlin's Noble Sultan, the handsome black bull which Manager Oliver Evans, of the Spencer Farm, has raised from a calf, took premier honors after a spirited contest.

The climax event of Professor Atkinson's morning judging came just at noon when five mature bulls, all from Island-bred dams, were led into the ring. Every one was of championship calibre. The judge spent half an hour before announcing a decision. Choice for first place was between the Spencer bull and Glamorgan Jersey Volunteer, recently bought by J. M. Landry, of Summerland, who has a very fine string at the Exhibition. Wesley McIntyre's bull from his Chilliwack farm was third. W. T. Hunter, superintendent of the Summerland Experimental Farm, led the fourth entry with Hamlet's You'll Do. The Dunvill entry was fifth.

The senior championship class brought the Spencer and Landry bulls into the ring with two two-year-olds owned by J. Pollister of Langley, and R. W. Brown of Lulu Island. The judge decided in favor of the older bulls, with Spencer's bull designated "Grand Champion" and the Landry bull "Reserve."

The junior championship also went to the Spencer herd with a broken colored but very handsome yearling, Oxford's Sultan.

GET ON WITH IT

WE HAVE BEEN ALL READY TO start for two weeks and are now only awaiting adequate facilities before establishing a double air service between here and Seattle.

This statement was made yesterday by Mr. A. E. Holden, traffic manager of the Washington-Alaska Airways Incorporated, who flew over to this city yesterday from Seattle with a party of the company's officials. It is another reminder that the business associated with aerial travel will come to Victoria if Victoria will put itself in a position to handle it. We observe the City Council is moving in connection with the establishment of an airport for the accommodation of seaplanes and flying boats.

This is not enough. There must be adequate facilities for the handling of land machines. For a comparatively small sum the Lansdowne area which hitherto has done duty as a makeshift airport could be made safe for use. At present, at least experts say so, it is far from safe. This means that as long as facilities do not exist we shall be completely off the air map as far as land machines are concerned.

The authorities should bear in mind that a new interest is being manifested in Victoria as a result of the widespread publicity which Mr. Arthur Brisbane gave this community recently in several hundreds of newspapers on this continent. What could be more natural than this question: Have you an airport?

If we have to answer in the negative, or qualify that by saying we are able to handle seaplanes only, we shall be confessing that we are behind the times—that we have allowed other smaller communities in the Province to get ahead of us.

THE CROP AND THE CROAKERS

FEARFUL LEST THE SMALLER CROP this year might have disastrous economic consequences—for which there is no ground—a Conservative contemporary says:

This makes it more imperative than ever that there should be a revision in our fiscal policy which will encourage our own manufacturers to make up the deficit caused by a poor harvest. If we continue to buy so much in the United States and send hundreds of millions of dollars out of the country which might be kept at home, we will have only ourselves to blame if ultimately an adverse trade balance is the result. The harvest of the present summer may bring a blessing in its wake if it engenders fiscal self-reliance in the Dominion.

This is not at all the view of The Toronto Mail and Empire, one of the staunchest of Conservative newspapers, for it comes out with the following reassuring observations—without any demand for a revision of the country's fiscal policy:

There is no alarm in business circles. There is no slackening. The natural industries, over and above that of farming, go on producing, and their output is not accumulating. . . . Canada is too widespread, and the spirit of the people is too stout, for the reverses of a single season to bring about a collapse of trade and industry.

Nor does The Vancouver Province choose to join what it calls the "Gummidge of Canada." It says "there is good reason to think, poor crop nevertheless, that the buying power of the Canadian farmer this fall, when he has gathered in the harvest, will be nearly as great as it was last year. It is not unknown in Canada that a great crop at poor prices has been worse for the living of the wheat farmer than a smaller crop at good prices. Already, since it was known that the Prairie drought was bound to reduce the wheat yield, there has been a notable rise in the price of wheat. It is as nearly certain as anything can be that the average price for this season's wheat will rule a great deal higher than that of last year's, and it may even happen that the total return for the whole crop may almost equal that of the bumper crop of 1922."

The Vancouver newspaper concludes its discussion of the subject in this manner:

It seems they have been trying to make our flesh creep, these prophets of disaster and mongers of an ill foreboding, but we think they will be left talking to themselves. Canada is not going into mourning just yet, and the report of this demise has been greatly exaggerated.

We may add that the people of Canada are not in the habit of running up the white flag the moment things do not go as they would like them. If they require either inspiration or example, they may go back to the days of Confederation; they may survey the progress made, often in the face of heavy odds, in the intervening years.

If any extra leeway is to be made up, it will be made up. It will be made up by the energy and resource of the Canadian people, not by restrictive fiscal formulas.

HARD UP FOR MATERIAL

MR. BENNETT HAPPENED TO NO- tice the other day that the Canadian dollar was at a discount in New York. "The Canadian dollar," he said, "that Mr. Robb used to say held up its head so proudly, now hangs its head. And it will be worse unless something is done."

It is obvious that Mr. Bennett is getting tired of his speech and needs a change of theme. The dollar, at a discount on the day he spoke about it of about one quarter of one cent, furnished it. But we notice he said nothing about the condition of the dollar in 1920 and again in 1921, when the party he now leads was in office. Its value in New York in those years was something less than eighty-eight cents.

Since that time, however, the Canadian dollar has been consistently at or near par, and on a number of occasions slightly above par. In other words, when Mr. Robb says it can hold up its head proudly, he is merely stating the case correctly.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY EXPANDING

THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC HAS RE- cently assumed yet greater importance as a textile manufacturing centre as the result of new industries locating within its borders. Two establishments of outstanding importance have been those of the Textile Company of Canada, which decided upon Louiseville, a point on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Montreal and Quebec, for the location of its plant, and the Canadian T. S. R. of Lyons (Compagnie Canadienne des Tissages de Soieries Reunis de Lyons Ltee), which is to erect and operate a plant at Cap de la Madeleine, not far distant from the other and also on the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Textile Company of Canada was recently organized with a fully paid up capital of $1,000,000, sponsored by a strong industrial group representing a consolidation of fifteen mills in the United States, all the experience of which will be at the disposal of the Canadian company. Twelve acres have been secured and an immediate commencement will be made upon the erection of the plant in the hope of having the building ready for the reception of equipment by September of the present year. Four hundred hands will be given employment at the outset, and before starting manufacturing it is intended to open up a school manned by trained operators in order that local help may become familiar with operations well in advance.

One hundred and fifty looms will be installed in the plant, which will constitute a complete unit consisting of weaving, throwing, dyeing and printing. The raw material will be imported from Japan and the rayon required will be purchased in Canada. Although silk manufactures will be turned out exclusively at the commencement, plans are under way for the addition of other lines, and the new enterprise gives every indication of developing into a most substantial industry.

The Canadian T. S. R. of Lyons has become established in Canada to carry on in the Dominion a business similar to that of the parent company in Europe. The company has factories in several parts of France and a school of design at Lyons, of which the Canadian company will get the benefit. The Canadian company will engage in the weaving of natural and artificial silk, or mixture thereof, and also import products of the parent company not manufactured in the Dominion. Decision was arrived at to establish in Canada, and in this section of Quebec Province, only after a thorough investigation into the cost of construction, management, comparative wages, customs, tariffs, needs of the market and other matters.

These new establishments yet more forcibly draw attention to the special facilities Canada, and outstandingly Quebec, possesses for the development of the textile industries. The expansion of this line of activity in the French Canadian Province has been one of the most striking features of the Province's progress in the post-war period. It is not long since the Canadian Celanese, Limited, located at Drummondville, Quebec, and expresses complete satisfaction with its experience, the development of markets for its products having necessitated the more than doubling of the fabric plant during 1922. Excellent water and rail transportation, dependable power at reasonable rates, and a proportion skilled, sums up the advantages of Quebec Province for this branch of industry.

In connection with the new developments, it is interesting to note the rapid growth of the silk manufacturing industry of Canada. This belongs essentially to the period since the end of the war, evidencing an unbroken rise in importance. Comparing the statistics of 1922 with those of 1917, there has been an increase of over 900 per cent. in capitalization, and of over 300 per cent. in the value of production, the latter figure being lower because in 1922 two new plants were merely getting into shape for production. Last year Canada exported silk and manufactures of it to a value of $123,966, and artificial silk and manufactures of it to the extent of $255,174, these figures both being lower than those of the previous year, due to increasing domestic demand and consumption. In rayon manufacture particularly, Canada has a very significant future.

Highway construction work at a cost of $7,500,000 is being undertaken in Ontario this year by the Provincial Department of Highways. Contracts have already been let for 230 miles of pavement and also for an extensive mileage of macadam.

BLACK-SHEEP RUSSIA

British resumption of relations with the Moscow Government cannot be expected to affect the Russian policy of the United States. Senator Borah still argues for recognition of the Soviet dictatorship, but he finds very little public support. Our Government's refusal to treat Red Russia as eligible to good standing in the family of nations meets with the hearty approval of the vast majority of Americans.

Havana tackles the noise problem—with results which will enlighten our city fathers—Budapest finds that it is dangerous to be fifty-one when you are thirty-nine—and knowledge gets easier to take all the time

By H. B. W.

PERHAPS the greatest social problem which is facing our age is the control of noise. At its present rate the world will be too noisy to support human life in another decade or so, that is unless the human animal, with its remarkable capacity for evolution, produces an auditory apparatus much tougher than that inherent in this generation. Cities all over the world are trying to control noise by various means and some are succeeding, it is said. Havana, Cuba, has just promulgated a model code which probably will be widely imitated. Havana, it is related, was once one of the world's noisiest cities, but it intends with its strict new regulations, to become the quietest.

FOR the guidance of our civic authorities, Havana's enlightened legislation is here recorded in full: "All forms of shouting in the public streets are forbidden. News vendors, alone, may advertise their wares with the use of their vocal chords, but only in a moderate tone of voice. Horrible murders and such like delights of these workers being elaborated in stage whistles. The use of cornets, hand-operated horns and sirens on hand carts is forbidden. Street car bells and automobile horns may only be used for facilitating traffic movements and a fine of $5 may be imposed for violation of the regulations. Mobile horns and street car bells must not be used between 12 midnight and 5 a.m. Driving of automobiles without mufflers is prohibited. Ambulating vendors are enjoined from announcing their presence by means of trumpets, whistles, cornets or bells. Strong-lunged announcers must not be placed at the exterior of business establishments. All industries are prohibited from making unnecessary noises at night and from using whistles to mark work hours. No business establishment may radiate music without securing the consent of neighboring shops and residents. Churches may toll their bells from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., but then only in moderation.

FORTUNATELY, FEW of these regulations are needed in Victoria. Merchants here do not employ announcers at their front doors. People do not shout much on the street. No cornets are used to draw attention to hand carts. We have only one old gentleman who sharpens knives and attracts attention with a tinkling bell, but it has tinkled so many years that it is music in our ears and no one would dream of interfering with it. After 11 p.m. you could hear a pin dropped on the pavement of Government Street. Altogether we are one of the most fortunate cities in the world, but we have got our share of one nuisance which Havana proposes to eradicate. We are afflicted with a class of motorists, mostly youths at the bare-headed, weak-minded age, who like to sneak up on you and then make their horns screech to see you jump. To them I direct the attention of the police, for in another ten years these same good-natured lads will be tossing monkey wrenches, ice cream cones and pop bottles out of their aeroplanes. That will be annoying.

TO the vast school of misguided women who seek by devious means to make themselves beautiful and usually achieve an ugliness peculiarly harrowing to all observers—to them comes a stern warning from distant Budapest, and it is so pointed at this time that it deserves to set forth in full. To a Budapest divorce court went a widower (who should have known better) and said he had recently been beguiled into marrying a spinster, who gave her age as thirty-nine and supported this statement at the ceremony with a birth certificate. She seemed about thirty-nine to this experienced husband, and not unattractive.

BUT LO, no sooner was the honeymoon over than the wife's features suffered a remarkable change. She seemed to age ten years almost in a day. The husband said he had seen something wrong and sued for divorce. At the trial the unfortunate woman admitted that she had gone to a beauty specialist who had reduced her age of fifty-one by twelve years. And to make sure that this arithmetic could not be questioned she had produced her dead sister's birth certificate at the wedding. The Budapest court is reported as puzzled and wondering, for it must decide whether the widower is legally married to his wife under a contract in which deception was employed, or whether he needs a decree of divorce from a woman who was legally dead. And the person to blame for this tangle, of course, is the beauty specialist. If his cure had been permanent the wife could have gone on being thirty-nine for years.

THE MORAL of this tale, sisters, is not that beauty treatments are to be discouraged, for in many cases they should be made compulsory by law; but that people who need such measures to acquire a husband should continue them after they have acquired one. Eternal vigilance is the price of being thirty-nine when you are really fifty-one.

BOOKS, IT seems, may soon become as out of date as the clay tablets on which the Sumerians wrote their love letters, or the rolls of papyrus which preserved the medical secrets of ancient Egypt. The latest idea, evolved by the State Library of Berlin, is to commit all books to movie films, which will take up only a fourtieth as much space. If the new arrangement is adopted, as librarians hope, old and rare books will be photographed and stored away, free from the wear and tear of usage. Persons wishing to refer to them will read the photographic film instead.

THIS WOULD be accomplished by the use of small projection machines which would be installed at all tables in the reading rooms. There students would sit back comfortably in arm chairs and read the films as they flashed by precisely like a motion picture. Special tables of encyclopedias, dictionaries and similar reference volumes are foreseen in the plan. In the storage room of the library the stacks or shelves would be replaced by metal cabinets full of film rolls.

THIS KNOWLEDGE is being imbibed more patiently all the time until at length there is no doubt we shall assimilate wisdom from our food or dissolved in our coffee and diet will become a question of intellectual instead of physical capacity.

STORM SWEEPS EASTERN STATES

Fire and Flood Damage Increased By Wind and Rain

New York, Aug. 14.—Wind, rain, hail and lightning sweeping through three eastern states left a trail of destruction, marked to-day by damaged buildings, blocked highways and ruined crops.

Regions in Pennsylvania, New York state and Vermont were visited by a series of storms yesterday in which damage by fire and flood was added to the havoc wrought by wind and hail.

A wind of hurricane force cut a swath twenty-five miles wide through Vermont from Lake Bomosee to Middlebury, overtopping cottages and damaging other buildings.

Farmers in the path of the storm lost sheep and other stock and severe damage was done to barns and other farm structures.

In the vicinity of Reading, Pa., a series of electrical storms fired three barns while torrents flooded property and made bridges impassable.

At Glen Falls, N.Y., and in the vicinity of Lake George, hailstones punctured the tops of automobiles, broke windows and stripped foliage from trees. Crops were beaten to the ground.

SEEKING ACCORD ON REPARATIONS

Snowden and French Delegation Negotiate For Reconciliation

The Hague, Aug. 14.—The financial committee of the conference in session here to consider the Young plan today, adjourned to Saturday after listening to Louis Loucheur, of France, and Premier Venizelos, of Greece, discuss on deliveries in kind, as part payment of German reparations.

An official communiqué said today a judgment was taken "in order to give the delegations time to continue negotiations begun on deliveries and annuities."

It was hoped generally the two days would permit Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the French delegation to discover a common ground for negotiations looking to reconciliation of their national viewpoints.

Mr. Snowden has said the Young plan is not acceptable to Great Britain except in revised form, which would allow his Government a greater percentage of German reparations.

The peacemakers, he said, had a choice between two evils when they decided on this form of payment and they chose the lesser. France has no interest in receiving imports under these conditions, he said, and the French delegation is in agreement with the British that an effort must be made to find some way to eliminate them. Mr. Loucheur joined other speakers in denouncing the re-exportation of goods delivered on the reparations account.

He thought, however, that the effect of deliveries in kind on the economic situation in Great Britain was less than believed by the British delegation. He gave figures to show that British unemployment in terms of French francs, represented an annual sum of 15,000,000,000 francs, while the total deliveries in kind were only 5,000,000,000 francs.

TO WORLD CONDITIONS

The French delegate held that the world economic situation had been affected by an increase in exports from the United States, and that if Great Britain enjoyed no more the proportion of trade she had before the war it was due to world conditions.

South American imports from Europe, he pointed out, had decreased to about one-third, all of which had gone to swell the exports of the United States.

"The Americans are younger and more ardent people than we, and understand, perhaps, better than we, that as population increases, production must increase, and that there must be a continuous race between production and consumption," he said.

"Salaries are high in the United States, stimulating spending, perhaps bringing a higher cost of living, but also producing an increase in the available money for purchases."

NEW FIRES ON ISLAND

Crews From Nanaimo Fight Forest Blazes in That Area

With four new fires in the Nanaimo and Duncan areas, the situation on Vancouver Island is still very serious, with hot and dry weather prevailing, according to reports reaching the forest protection office here.

Fire-fighting crews have been sent from Nanaimo to fight the fresh blazes while men from the collieries at Wellington have augmented the forces engaged in battling the flames.

The Campbell River area is having a breathing spell after several weeks of work against devastating blazes, the reports say.

On the Mainland, in the Vancouver area, the situation remains about the same. Fire burning over municipal lands near Jackson Road in the Fraser district destroyed several buildings yesterday, it was stated.

"I am a nurse trained in three hospitals and am also a widow with three young children. I wish to let you know the great benefit I have received since taking Kruschen Salts, two years ago. I would not miss the daily dose for anything, as I can truthfully say I would be unable to do my work (owing to a severe form of Neuritis and Rheumatism) if it were not for your valuable Salts, so you will understand how fully I appreciate the splendid health I receive from them."

Kruschen is a perfect blend of six natural mineral salts which we all need every day (i) to help liver and kidneys to perform their natural duties in a natural way; (ii) to clear away, gently but completely, all the poisonous waste matter that has been clogging the system; (iii) to purify the blood. The analysis is on the bottle. There are sodium and magnesium to stimulate the organs of elimination. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic potassium. Each "little daily dose" is a full day's supply of these six vital salts; just the right amount to keep your body and mind tuned up to a pitch of real constant fitness.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial diet, or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with three or four tablets of Bismarck's—pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy tablets form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bismarck's Magnesia tablets, which only good druggists supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bismarck's Magnesia Tablets! (Adv.)

Multi-millionaire Theatre Operator Faces Court on Girl's Charges To-day

Investigators Hunt For Missing Witnesses on Eve of Trial

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.—A search was being conducted to-day for William Jobelman, considered an important witness for the prosecution in the case of Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire theatre operator, who is to appear for preliminary hearing in Municipal Court this afternoon on charges of attacking Eunice Pringle, seventeen-year-old co-ed and dancer.

Buron Fitts, district attorney, said that investigators began their hunt yesterday for Jobelman, publicity agent for Pantages, but had failed to find him. Three other witnesses for the state were in custody of deputy sheriffs pending the hearing after being taken from their homes last night as a precautionary measure.

SEEK YOUNG WOMAN

Investigators from the district attorney's office were also attempting to locate a young woman, whom Miss Pringle said pushed her back into Pantages' private office last Friday when she attempted to escape after the alleged attack.

Fitts declared that the prosecution was ready to go through with the case, with sworn statements from every possible witness to substantiate the charges. Pantages has denied that he committed a statutory offense or attacked the girl by using force and violence. He termed it a case of "blackmail."

NEW THREATS

Dr. Lewis A. Pringle, father of the complaining witness, has reported new threats over the telephone, should his daughter continue to press her case against the theatre operator. The Pringle apartment has been under guard since Sunday, following similar threats.

Testimony and cross-examination of Miss Pringle was expected to be the high point in the preliminary hearing. Additional deputy sheriffs were assigned to the court room in anticipation of a large crowd.

COL. T. HIAM APPOINTED TO COAST POST

Will Act as Personal Representative of Sir Henry Thornton at Vancouver

Col. Thomas Hiam, formerly director of transport for the League of Nations at Geneva, will come to the coast on October 1 to assume the post of resident assistant to Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, at Vancouver.

Col. Hiam will act as the personal representative of Sir Henry Thornton on the coast and his chief function will be to develop western policy for the National Railways, particularly in respect to the Peace River and the furthance of Canadian trade with Asia.

Starting his railway experience with the Grand Trunk Railway, Col. Hiam later became secretary to Sir Donald Mann of the Canadian Northern Railway.

In 1916 he enlisted with the Canadian "Buffs," a Toronto battalion, and after service on the western front was transferred to the British railway corps in Mesopotamia. At the close of the war he returned to Canada and resumed his former railway connection. It was during a trip to the Pacific coast on railway business that Col. Hiam learned he had been appointed by Sir Herbert Ames as director of transport for the League of Nations, with headquarters at Geneva.

BULLBREAKS FROM ARENA

Has Wild Race Through Valencia Streets Before Being Captured

Valencia, Spain, Aug. 14.—A raging bull, intended for the Valencia Arena, fought his way to freedom here to-day, killed one woman, wounded three horses and frightened the populace. He finally was put in tow, however, and this evening awaited his turn against a matador.

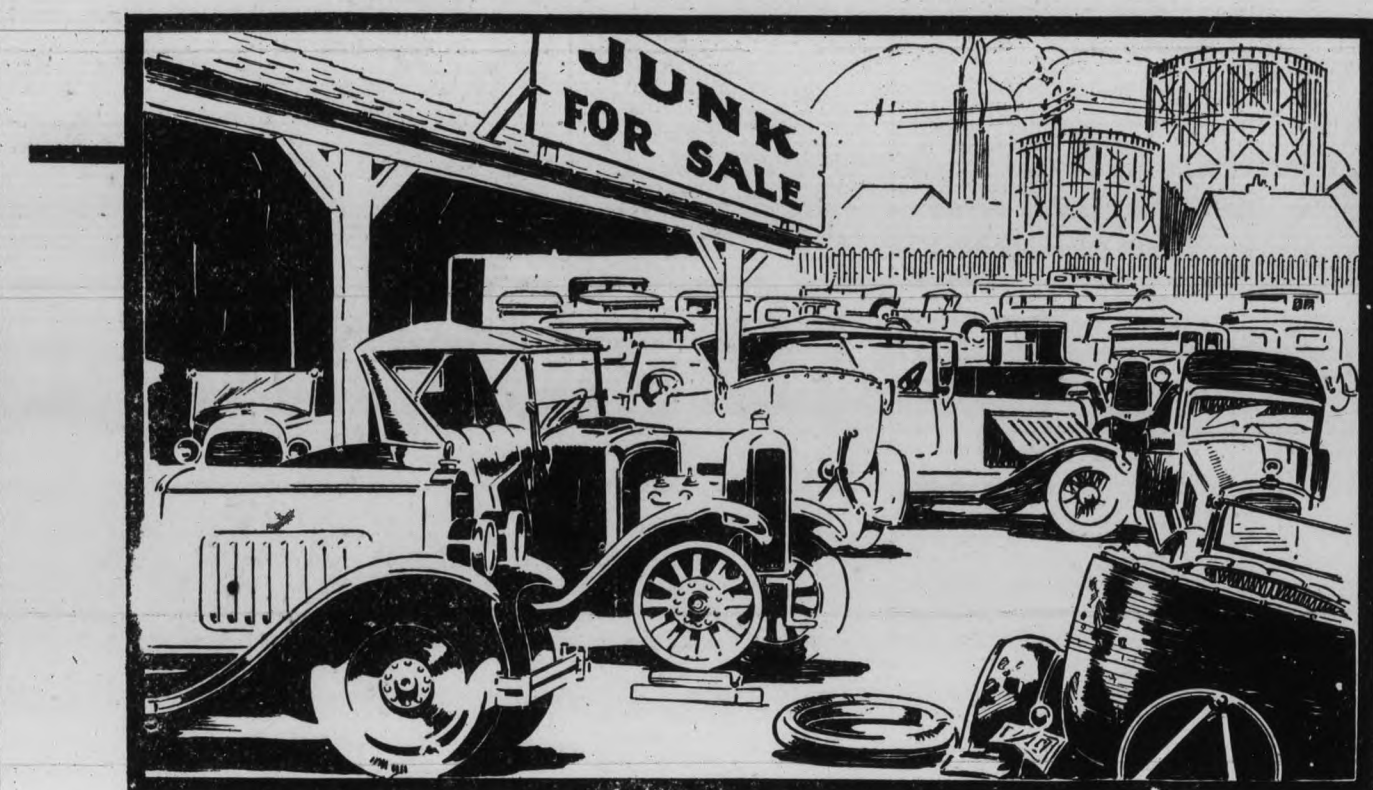

The bull escaped while it was being taken to its pen, preparatory to a bull fight.

It raced through the streets, with the populace scattering in every direction, and entered the house of Vicente Deporta.

Senora Deporta was in the kitchen busy with her work when the bull appeared in the room, knocking her down. It found its way to a rear door and entered the stable, where three horses were eating. It butted the horses and returned to the street searching for more victims, after having made a complete search of the entire house. In the street it was captured.

Infection of Tonsils Often Is Cause Of Heart Disease

By DOCTOR MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the most serious problems with which the Veterans' Bureau has been confronted since the World War is that of the soldiers who developed during service or thereafter forms of heart disease which incapacitated them for work. In a group of 736 ex-service men hospitalized for heart disease, 1,123 different disturbances of the heart were classified.

Haven Emerson studied 927 adults with heart disease, and found that rheumatic fever was responsible for 331 cases, acute tonsillitis was associated with 207, decayed teeth with 163, syphilis with 122, scarlet fever with seventy-eight, measles with fifty-four, diphtheria with forty-seven, whooping cough with fourteen and chorea with seven. Obviously there were multiple causes in some of these cases, but again and again analysis of the cause of heart disease bring to light the existence of the conditions that are here mentioned.

When the 736 soldiers with heart disease were studied, rheumatic fever, infectious diseases and syphilis again appeared among the chief conditions associated with the development of disturbances of the heart.

Where direct connection can be shown between the infection in the tonsil and the disturbance of the heart, removal of the tonsils during a quiet stage is sometimes of benefit. However, the decision must be made by the physician in each case according to the conditions he finds at the time of his investigation.

One of the chief problems which the Veterans' Bureau has to consider in this connection is the amount of compensation that is to be given to the soldier in the light of the impairment, and to do full work.

The average monthly compensation of persons with various forms of heart disease varies from $10 to $110 per month and represents a part of the cost of the war of which few people have any actual cognizance.

There are about 25,000 Moham-medans on the North American continent.

The Woman's Day

BY ALLENE SUMNER

A chain of alcohol cure sanitariums which has been famous as the last resort for drink victims ever since "The Face-on-the-Bar-room-Floor" and "Father, dear father, come home to us now" days, announces that for the first time in its history it is taking in as patients women inebriates.

In fact, sanitarium officials quite frankly say that women patients are now forming a large part of their business.

Many comments and many reactions will be based upon this revelation. The rabid anti-Volsteadian will flout it as full proof that this present era of gin-on-the-hip is infinitely worse than the old saloon era. He will ask if we need any other fact before deciding that somehow or other the dry era must vanish if we are to be saved.

He will prattle about the good old wet days when "pure and holy womanhood" was on her pedestal, even if the saloon was around the corner, and contrast it with the iniquitous present with woman off her pedestal and taking the cure.

SAMPLE LIFE

There is much more food for thought here than this. Just what it means is hard to say. It means so many things. It means, for one, that woman is at last really experimentally sampling life, much as men always have, and that she is learning about the same things, sometimes to her joy, sometimes to her sorrow.

It means that she has money of her own. The old-time woman couldn't imbibe enough to land in a sanitarium because she had no money of her own to spend. Now, too busy struggling for some man to have time or energy to keep attractive enough to be asked to drink by somebody else, and she lived in an age when "good women" could not do certain things which "good men" could do and still be accepted by their communities as "good men."

And I am not ready to say that even an age which has women who "take the cure" is any worse than an age which permitted only men to really live, the sense of experimentation with all that life offered, and from her own experience building the best life for herself.

AND THEY SMOKE

It is the age permitting woman to experiment which is responsible for the fact that cigarette consumption of this country has doubled within the last ten years. The more than 50,000,000 yearly cigarettes which are smoked now which weren't smoked a decade ago are attributed to women's use.

"Smokes for women" is intelligently reviewed by Allan Benson in current "Good Housekeeping." He tells us that more than half their teens are now smoking than boys did twenty years ago. He tells us of girls who smoke at their desks in business offices as well as in restaurants and even on the street and bus tops and in taxis.

The author presents an imposing array of physicians who testify that cigarette smoking is especially injurious to women.

A plea is made that girls be kept from the commercial wiles of the day in the form of radio, billboard, magazine, movie, et al, urging them to smoke.

He points out that the youth of yesterday was not so commercially besieged as is to-day's youth. All very true. But how stop the efficiency of a money-is-all age?

YOUR CHILDREN

When a high and dizzy picture appears on the screen, it would be interesting to be one of the actors balancing on the edge of the steel girder half a mile above Broadway, look out over the audience and count the number of grown-ups—grown-ups, mind you—with their eyes tight shut, their left hands pressing desperately against their sides.

The children, to a man, will be balancing on the edges of their seats, squealing their excitement—and delight—at our predicament.

What's the matter with this picture—I mean with this audience? Why, that somewhere in the past twenty or thirty years, we've picked up a most unnecessary and distressing height complex.

We can't look out of a window above the third floor! We are miserable in an elevator! An immediate and never view is torment if it lies more than twenty feet below—no, even ten! It's as bad as that sometimes. We see only terror in a skyscraper and an aeroplane is the epitome of tragedy and horror!

Our favorite nightmare is falling through space, and we become obsessed with the conviction that some day by one great, last, large, sickening drop, we shall meet our end. N'est-ce pas?

Now just when did this nice seven-headed monster manage to get us between itself and the wind?

Well, I'll tell you when it got me up the wind. When I was five years old in Pittsburgh there was built an enormous skyscraper with about fifteen stories, or was it twelve, called the Hamilton Building.

It was the wonder of the country and the price of liniment went up considerably the first month after it was completed and its fame spread abroad. Visitors came from far and near to see it.

But we were more lucky than the others because my father came home one night and said he was going to take us all over next day and up to the roof. The height of that building was talked about until I began to think nervously that it must be higher than the world.

I hedged. I didn't want to go. I was a sensitive, nervous child anyway and I didn't like experiments. But my father was one who believed in the toughening process. I went. I was taken up an endless journey in an elevator, then up a pair of stairs, and a ladder to the roof. I hid my face and cried. But I was led gently but firmly over to the edge of the building with nothing between me and eternity but a thin little rail, and made to look down. I had a real

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Have your children ever been to a real farm?

Have they ever been inside of a barn, do they know how chickens roost, do they know where the pigs stay, what roasters the turkeys are, where the horses drink, how the cows are milked?

I'm not joking—not in the least. For I find that children now, especially in the cities, are more likely to know about the zoo animals than the domestic ones. They go to circuses and there they make the acquaintance of everything from sea elephants to laughing hyenas, but the chances are that they haven't the slightest conception of how sheep and pigs live, what they eat, or indeed, half the time, what they look like.

Last spring at the zoo I saw a little girl watch a white peacock wait for his audience, then when a little crowd had gathered, slowly spread his enormous tail, raise it like the back of a Koshalucca chair, and slowly strut his stuff. "He looks like a turkey," said her father.

A LOST EXPERIENCE

Think of it! I suppose the nearest she had ever come to a turkey was in the pictures she had seen in the papers last Thanksgiving or the one the teacher drew on the blackboard in school.

There are farms all about us everywhere within bus or street car distance, not to say anything of the family car. Almost any farmer will be happy and proud to show you and the children over the farm and genuinely thrilled at the children's delight.

Real eggs in real nests—perhaps, where a sly mother hen has hidden her nest, and hatched a late family, a brood of little chickens may add to the excitement. Ducks on the creek, turkeys vagabonding through the fields.

Spring lambs almost as tall and plump as their dams; shoving and squealing and snorting through their fence around their yard.

Then the crops! Children will learn more in a minute by visiting the ripening grain fields now and having it all explained to them than they can by reading a whole book on harvests.

Corn—how it must be cared for and cultivated, explain about the green tassels, then later on about the brown tassels, the developing ears! Show them the silo on the farm where the stalks are chopped off after the ears are off, and stored away and allowed to ferment for fodder for the cows in winter.

If possible they ought to see grain being cut and harvested. A real harvest—think what they will learn!

The kitchen garden will be a store of information—show them how different kinds of vegetables grow.

The orchard should not be neglected. Apple trees, pear trees, cherries, peaches and plums. Show them the green and the ripe fruit where possible. Compare the shapes of the trees and the leaves.

All children, if it is possible, should spend a week or two on a real farm. We take it for granted that they know all about these familiar things and they probably don't at all.

FOUR POSTER BEDS ARE OF MANY PATTERNS

By Florence La Gank

Two days before Nancy returned from the south, the Early American Club had its meeting. The subject was beds. It so happened that the hostess of the day had a Sheraton bedstead which was a family heirloom. When the guests laid their wraps on it as they came it meant little to them beyond the fact that it was an heirloom, but after they had discussed the various types of fourposters they looked at the bed with a most intelligent and appreciative interest. It was Grace's turn to give the talk and lead the discussion. She started by showing the built-in cupboard-like affairs which were superseded by the massive affairs of carved oak. These were used in England during the seventeenth century and were already out of favor when America was settled. The more slender post bedsteads of Queen Anne's time were in and were copied here.

Chippendale beds were made of mahogany, and had fluted or reeded posts. The acanthus carving might be on testers or on posts near framework of bed. The Sheraton beds were lighter than Chippendale and had vase-like posts with tapered gracefully to a slender and delicate end. His acanthus carving was used to connect two different forms of turning on the post. The Hepplewhite beds used tapering posts with square bases and with much vine-like carving twining about the post itself.

Grace's bed was a Sheraton. It was canopied with a figured material which was used also for valance. This material was most effective against the plain paper in the bedroom. The spread itself was an old-time candle-wicking one in white. In olden days the four posts and testers held up heavy curtains to keep in warmth and to keep out drafts at night. Now we use much lighter weight material and keep it for tester top, not for all four sides.

MILK SELLER GIVES ADVICE ON CARE OF MILK UTENSILS

Mrs. M. M. M. writes—"I have no babies but I recently read an article in your department on care of milk utensils. We have sold milk for fifteen years and I have much literature on the subject. I am glad you have an expert station reports on the care of milk and milk utensils, and they all say, 'Use no soap in washing milk pails or pans especially in hot weather.'"

"Use salt soda in washing. Rinse and scald and put in the sun. Use cloth strainers, wash strainer and cloth in cold water first, then in salt soda water, then in hot water, then scald. After they have been in the sun an hour or so they may be taken in and rinsed again to get out dust or insects. I can keep milk sweet for days at a time in the hottest weather and I have no ice to keep it. I think everything we use in cooking should have occasional sun baths. At least once a week I put out stew pans and coffee pots for about an hour in the sun. I can never keep an empty kettle covered. I know a woman who covers her fruit jars (empty ones) when she stores them, and her fruit and vegetables do not keep well. I leave my fruit jars open all the time and wash and sterilize before using and I never lose a jar. I sun them always after using the contents."

ANSWER: This is very interesting. Never have ing had anything to do with milk pans or pails in my life. I jumped to the very obvious, but not very bright, conclusion that milk pans and pails and baby's milk bottles and utensils would have the same care. These last are rinsed in cold water, washed in hot water, rinsed and put on to boil in a pan of cold water. I suppose that this same procedure would be adequate for the milk utensils, but size would have much to do with that and the sun is a powerful germicide. Just air and sun are quite enough to kill almost any kind of germ. I am glad you wrote me, as your advice is just what that particular reader wanted.

MORE ABOUT PLAY PENS

Mrs. M. K. writes—"My baby is eleven and one-half months old and her greatest joy is to play outdoors in a play pen my husband built. It is almost six feet square and has a floor, green paint, dovetailed construction, matched genuine walnut. These prices will insure very quick sale. A deposit will hold one of these suits for you. Bed, chiffonier, vanity and bench. Sale price $101.50. Complete With Dresser, $139.50.

The baby has taken her milk from a cup since the ninth month. I use a small one, two or three-ounce size, like an orange juice glass. She loves to play with the paper boxes eggs come in, and walnut shells in a baking powder can, also measuring spoons and pie tins."

Surprises Seen In Opening Day of Seniors' Tourney

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Victoria is host this week to nearly 200 senior golfers from all parts of the Northwest, it being the occasion of the seventh annual tournament of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association. The veteran mashie wielders organized in 1922 and have become one of the most powerful groups of golfers in the world to-day. Every year the tournament gets bigger, while the membership of the organization remains at 300.

Strong efforts have been made to have the membership of the organization increased. At the present time there are about sixty on the waiting list. The membership could be boosted to around 500 without trouble, but that would demand two courses for the championship and the seniors have always balked at that.

Another pleasing feature is that Victoria will never lose her senior golfers. The last annual meeting the members decided to always hold the tournament in this city. This is a big boost for the Capital City, and it shows that they must have a good time during their stay here every year.

One of the main reasons why these tournaments are such a success is the fact that the seniors have such an efficient and capable secretary in Capt. J. V. Perks. Having been their secretary ever since the organization was formed Capt. Perks certainly knows his work and every tournament is run off like clockwork.

The big night in the life of the seniors is the annual banquet at the Union Club. This will be held on Friday night and those who attend always have a wonderful time. The veterans put over the affair in grand style.

John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, according to a baseball legend, orders every ball thrown by a Giant pitcher by a complicated system of signals. He also uses the signal system, the story goes, to move his infielders from spot to spot.

It was the sluggishness of Frankie Frisch in catching these signals that caused McGraw to release a player who was considered to be one of the best second basemen in baseball.

McGraw hasn't had a good second baseman since Frisch was sent down the baseball river to St. Louis. But McGraw sticks to his principle.

"He missed too many signals and he was the captain of the team," McGraw told a friend.

It is also a baseball legend that Connie Mack, the grand old man of the Philadelphia Athletics, flags his players.

One of the most familiar pictures of the "old man" shows him standing on the steps of the dugout with a scorecard in his hand flagging his men on the field. It has been accepted as a fact years ago that the Philadelphia players depended on the motions of that scorecard in the waving hands of the old master.

"Is it true, Mr. Mack, that you direct the pitching and the positions of the players with that scorecard?" he was asked.

The genial Connie beamed one of those wide smiles characteristic of him. And would not reply.

"I would not tell you any of his secrets," one of his men said. "I am not saying that he does or doesn't. I will admit that at times when we have a young outfielder or a rookie infielder it does no harm to wave a scorecard one way or the other to get him into a better position. But I will leave it to your own judgment if it is necessary to order every ball pitched by such pitchers as Grove, Waiberg, Earnshaw, Rommel and Quinn.

"That reminds me of the old story," he went on, "of the manager who sent up a pinch hitter with the instructions: 'Hit a home run.' There are times, of course, when a situation arises demanding a message from the bench. We have a way of sending those messages. I will ask you to recall that we have two of the greatest catchers in baseball."

Mickey Cochrane or Cy Perkins or Jimmy Fox, when he was catching, never look around to the bench like a Giant catcher for the word.

The scorecard says that Mack does, according to his men, is in large part a decoy. "We do get a lot of signals from the bench," one of them said. "But they don't always come from that scorecard. The guys on the other bench are watching the boss and trying to steal the signals from that waving scorecard but the signals are being passed by someone else on the bench. The boss is just acting as a decoy."

President Barnard of the American League was right again. He predicted a hot race in the league this year. That almost put him in the same class with newspaper experts who picked Washington.

Between 900 and 1,000 home runs have been hit to date in the American and National leagues. Last year the season total was 1,093. Mr. Shibe denies the ball is any livelier. Ethelberg is the official correct name of a country which most people in America call Abyssinia.

The way the Cubs have been playing ball since somebody on the Cincinnati bench called Hack Wilson yellow suggests that the Cincinnati Reds should be declared in on the pennant money.

Diffusionment is that feeling you receive when you turn from the home run column and look at Philadelphia in the National League standings.

Two Former Champs Fail to Qualify for Championship

Josiah Collins and T. S. Lippy, Both of Seattle, Unable to Make Select Group, While J. A. Sayward of Victoria, Finalist Last Year, Also Fell by Wayside; L. A. Lewis of New Westminster is Medalist With Splendid Score of 79; R. W. Gibson, Veteran Victorian, Only Class "A" Player to Qualify.

Under the guiding hand of Capt. J. V. Perks, their popular secretary, the seventh annual tournament of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association got away to a flying start at the links of the Victoria Golf Club yesterday. With the biggest entry in the history of the organization yesterday's qualifying round was run off in fine manner. Weather conditions were ideal, and the course was in first-class condition.

With three strokes to the good over his nearest opponents, L. A. Lewis of New Westminster, winner of the first championship of the association away back in 1922, carried off the medal honors when he turned in a card of 79 in the morning. Joe Wilson of Victoria, defending champion, and F. T. McCollough of Spokane were in second place, each with an 82.

Lewis is playing splendid golf and it would not be surprising if he carried off his second championship. Besides winning the title once, he was also runner-up one year.

Scores of 87 or better qualified for the championship flight. A play-off was necessary to decide the last four positions. This resulted in J. R. Strutt, C. H. Jones, F. A. Byerley and Judge Rigg gaining the places.

THOSE WHO QUALIFIED

The complete list of those who qualified for the grand championship follows: L. A. Lewis, New Westminster, 79; J. E. Wilson, Victoria, 82; F. T. McCollough, Spokane, 82; Joshua Green, Seattle, 83; R. W. Gibson, Victoria, 83; Jim Sobey, Seattle, 84; E. E. Todd, Seattle, 85; H. G. Wilson, Victoria, 85; J. W. Morris, Victoria, 86; A. Heret, Victoria, 86; A. H. Daugherty, Seattle, 86; R. H. Swinerton, Victoria, 86; J. R. Strutt, Seattle, 87; C. H. Jones, Spokane, 87; Judge Rigg, Yakima, 87; J. A. Byerley, Portland, 87.

Included in the grand championship flight are ten visiting veterans and six Victorians. The other class championships are pretty evenly split up between outsiders and Victorians so keen competition is expected before the titles are decided.

Of the large field the worst score turned in was 122, which is exceptionally good, when it is considered that some of the veterans are getting mighty close to the four score mark. The old timers were right in their glory yesterday and were standing up and hitting the ball like a bunch of youngsters.

STRIPES

The big surprise of the tournament was the fact that Josiah Collins, who was the second senior to win the grand championship, and T. S. Lippy, both of Seattle, failed to qualify for the championship flight. Collins, also a former president of the Seniors' Association, had an 89, while Lippy, ranked a ninety. Both these Sound City golfers were expected to be strong contenders for the championship this year. J. A. Sayward, of Victoria, finalist last year, also failed to qualify, another mild surprise.

One pleasing feature yesterday was that Victoria contributed the only "A" class competitor for the grand championship in the person of R. W. Gibson. This local veteran, who has won seven senior championships, picked off a splendid 83 to be tied with Joshua Green for fourth place. He also qualified last year.

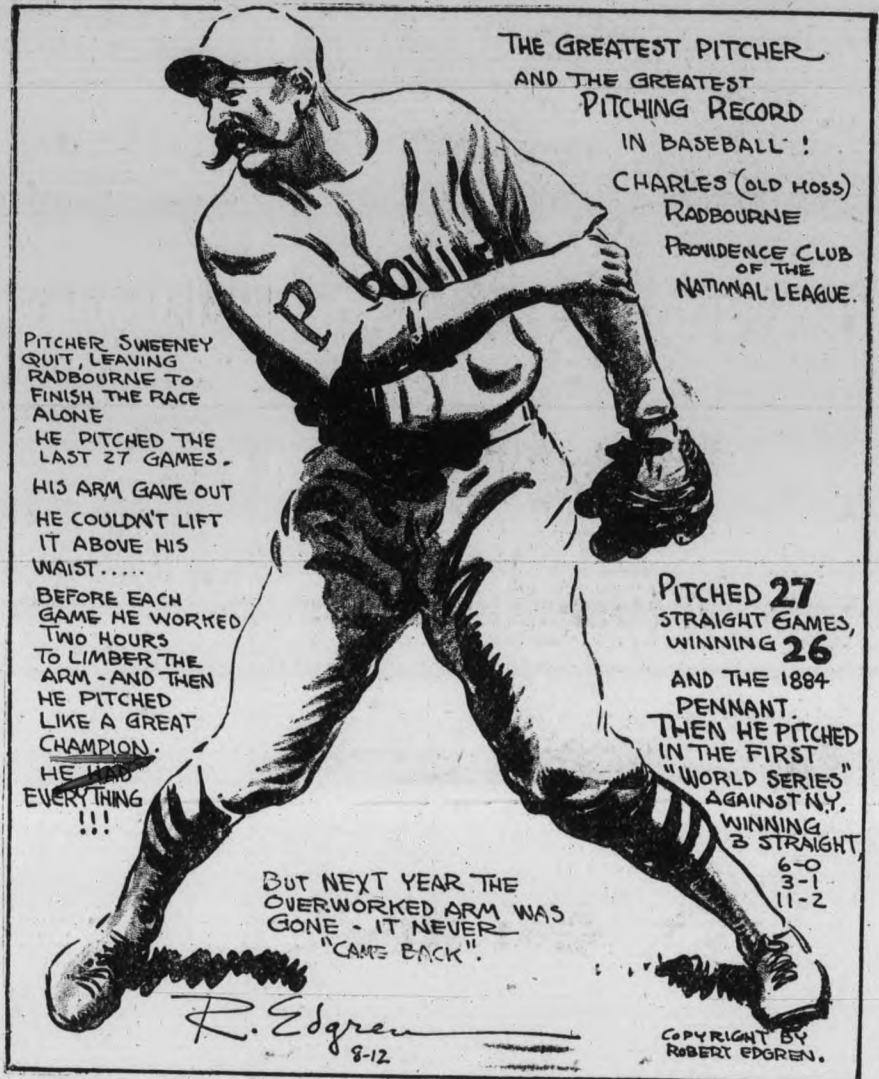

Although they had scores good enough to qualify for the grand championship, Dr. O. J. West and F. J. Brownell, Seattle; W. C. Worsfold, New Westminster, and Senator Harry Barnard, both founders of association, dropped out of play in their class championships.

Yesterday's scores follow:

Hunter dropped the opening set of his match with Phil Neer, but tightened up to take the match from the Portland Oregon, player, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Tilden's victory put him in the fourth round along with Berkeley Bgill, Dallas, Texas, who trounced C. C. Hubbell, Jr., of Forest Hills, 6-2, 6-1. Hunter's triumph placed him in the third round, where he was joined by H. W. "Bunny" Austin, of England, Frank Shields, of New York, and Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, California.

Philadelphia Gains Greatest Lead of Season

Eke Out Victory Over Detroit As Yanks Lose Again

Now Hold Margin of Twelve and a Half Games Over World's Champions, Who Drop Third to Cleveland; Mackmen's Last Appearance in Automobile Centre; Chicago Cubs Nose Out Braves as Cincinnati Hands Giants Another Setback.

The Philadelphia Athletics are skipping merrily along again as eastern American League clubs prepare for the second series of their final western invasion. Following Rube Walberg's brilliantly-pitched effort against the Detroit Tigers on Monday, Old John Pius Quinn turned in a neat game yesterday to shade Victor Sorrell 4-3 in the Mackmen's last appearance of the season in Detroit.

It now remains for Mose Grove to turn in a good game, and he probably will get his chance at Cleveland to-day.

Grove's next effort will mark his fifth attempt to wrest his eighteenth victory of the season from old man percentage. He last won on July 25.

The victory of the Athletics gave them three out of four in Detroit and enabled them to stretch their lead to twelve and one-half games, their greatest margin of the season. New York Yankees were nosed out in Cleveland by 3 to 2.

Quinn gave the Tigers eight hits, two more than the Mackmen exacted from Sorrell, but the game was not nearly so close as the score sounded. Cronin's fumble gave the home team a run in the first, and Marty McManus hit over the fence for one more in the ninth after the day had been lost. Home runs by Sammy Hale and Jimmy Fox, his twenty-seventh, provided Quinn with his winning margin.

HEIMACH WEAKENS

Fred Heimach turned in high-class ball against the Indians for eight innings only to weaken in the ninth. Willy Moore then rushed to the rescue, not of the Yankees, but of the Indians. Heimach greeted him with a triple, which drove in the two runs needed to win.

Wes Ferrell pitched his usual strong game against the Yankees. He was in trouble only in the third when the Huggan named him for their two runs. The defeat marked the third reverse for the champions in four games at Cleveland, and ran the Indians' string over the Huggan for the season to twelve out of seventeen.

The Boston Red Sox escaped from Chicago with the last game of the series, 8-2. The St. Louis Browns turned on the Washington Senators 14 to 2 in the gateway game at St. Louis.

With half of the National League club idle because of the advancement of games in the schedule at Brooklyn and Philadelphia Chicago nosed out the Boston Braves by 4-2 in the last game of the series at Boston, and increased the Chicago lead to eight and one-half games. Carlson was in trouble only in the fifth. The Braves in that round gained a lead of 2-0, but Hal Clark dumped down upon the home forces from that point.

The Cincinnati Reds trimmed the New York Giants by 3-1 in the last of five games at the Polo Grounds and at the same time broke the spell Fred Fitzsimmons had held over them. Big Fitz had a record of five victories over the men of Hendricks until yesterday; four of them by the shutout route.

Nova Scotia Man Burns in Sedan

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 14.—Bernard Harding, thirty-five, was burned to death last evening, when a large sedan, in which he was driving together with Arthur Crowe, left the road, crashed over a culvert, landed on its side and burst into flames. The accident occurred when Crowe was driving failed to negotiate a sharp curve on the Sydney-Tatford Highway.

Felt Tired and Miserable

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for miserable and tired feelings and it gave me strength to do my work. My nerves are better and I feel well and strong and have a good appetite. I sleep well and am in pretty good spirits and able to work every day now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Miss Delena Wallace, Union Street, North Devon, New Brunswick.

LORD HOWARD IN NIGHT CLUB ROW

Young Nobleman Centre of London Street Riot in West
End Theatre District

Bound Over in Bow Street
Court to Keep Peace For Year

London, Aug. 14.—A street row in which Lord Howard of Effingham, aged twenty-three, was one of the chief participants, was described in the Bow Street police court to-day. The affray took place in front of a night club in the West End theatre district. Lord Howard admitted he was fighting, and told of knocking down several men after a woman had caught him outside the door of the club in an effort to prevent his departure.

Lord Howard's fellow defendant was Ernest Miller, a laborer. They were both charged with insulting behavior and bound over to keep the peace for a year.

VISTS FLEW

Police testified that seventy or eighty women and men had gathered in the street by the time they reached the scene. Lord Howard told of exchanging blows with a man who struck at him. The man ducked, said his lordship, and ran off "as fast as he could blinking well run." He said he was attacked by fifteen or twenty men and women, and that the woman who attempted to detain him scratched his eyes.

One of Lord Howard's companions described the scene in which he said Lord Howard was chasing a man down the street while a woman chased his lordship.

ARREST MAYOR IN INDIANA LIQUOR RAIDS

Young Girls Charged With
Tending Bars in Speakeasies

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 14.—One hundred and twenty-five men, women and children, including R. P. Hale and James Regan, mayor and chief of police, respectively, of East Chicago, were arrested by twenty-five prohibition officers from Illinois and Indiana on warrants charging violations and one conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act.

All those under arrest were from East Chicago and from Indian Harbor, agent said. There are still seventy-five warrants yet to be served. Whether any other officials of the two towns were on the long list of warrants, prohibition officers declined to state.

Among the children were a number of young girls in their teens who were charged with their parents with tending bars in the speakeasies operated by their parents.

In virtually all the places visited by the raiders quantities of liquor, beer and alcohol were seized, and before the raids were half over more than a freight car load of bootlegging accessories had been seized.

CONTRARINESS SEEN LEADING CHILD TRAIT

Columbia Research Worker
Ranks It With Physical and Nervous Disorders

New York, Aug. 14.—Enuresis in boys and negativism or contrariness, in girls are the ailments that most frequently afflict children between ages of one and five, according to a study recently completed by Marie Agnes Tilson, research worker at Teachers College, Columbia University. The survey was made to discover the relation between the problems of childhood and the nationality, education, religion and occupation of the parents, and the home environment of the children studied.

The 228 children who formed the subject of the study were observed in seven habit clinics to which they had been referred by physicians, public health nurses, children's aid societies and the parents themselves. Of the 228 children 110 were boys and 118 girls.

The children selected had to be American born, free from physical deformity, with a mentality above feeble-mindedness and with some sort of home environment. Children were referred to the clinics from one to four problems, and after observation from one to eleven additional problems were discovered.

Enuresis, a nervous disorder of young children, heads the list of ailments with seventy-nine cases. The next most frequent problems are temper tantrums, thumb-sucking, need of surgical or medical care, negativism, poor nutrition and emotional dependence on adults.

Of the forty-seven cases of enuresis among the boys twenty-three were referred to the clinics by physicians, nurses and parents, and twenty-four were discovered by the clinics. Of the thirty-two cases among girls, nineteen were referred and thirteen discovered. According to Dr. Tilson, this indicates either that the parents of the problem children were not aware that this particular problem represented one which could be remedied by training, or that they were ashamed of it and unwilling to suggest that it was present.

MEDICAL CARE A PROBLEM

Need for surgical or medical care, which was the second largest problem, was found to be associated in the children with too little opportunity to play with other children and with poor nutrition. Negativism also ranked second, with seventy-seven cases. This problem was found to be associated in boys with restlessness and emotional dependence on adults.

The problem of temper tantrums in boys could not be associated completely with any other problem. In girls the problem showed an association with cases of fear. Too little opportunity to play with other children was found to be associated in every boy's case with emotional dependence on adults and poor nutrition.

The study reveals that there was a larger number of problem children from one-child families than from families with any other number of children. Dr. Tilson believes this may be traced to the fact that such parents feel less qualified to deal with child problems than parents who have had more experience.

Parental attitudes, Dr. Tilson believes, may largely determine the frequency of these child problems. The most frequent undesirable parental attitudes are shown to be disagreement of parents on matters of discipline, friction between parents, nagging the child and comparing him unfavorably with other children, lax and inconsistent discipline, waiting too much on the child and bribing or deceiving the child.

Dr. Tilson believes that the responsibility for the physical and mental health of young children must be assumed by the parents and other adults who are with the children over long periods of time.

URGES PARENT EDUCATION

"The study reveals the need of parents for information concerning child development, child training in behavior common to all children and methods of dealing with problems of delayed training," she says. "The data made available by the study should be used, together with similar studies and authoritative literature on the subject, to familiarize parents with the common problems of childhood.

"A knowledge of such material will serve to assist parents in taking intelligent measures to prevent the occurrence of the problems and in treating them when they do occur. A course based upon a study of such data may help parents to recognize not only the problems which usually cause most annoyance, such as feeding problems and temper tantrums, but also those which are equally important, if less tangible, such as jealousy and self-consciousness.

"It will also help parents to realize that these problems are common to childhood and not peculiar to their own children and will accordingly prepare them to face the problems without feeling shocked, injured or ashamed. The large proportion of the children who showed a need of surgical or medical care will demonstrate further to parents the need for regular physical examinations of young children."

CANADIAN NATIONAL HOTEL FOR SASKATOON

Above is shown a preliminary study of the new hotel which the Canadian National Railways will build in Saskatoon. It will have a minimum of 200 bedrooms as well as specially planned facilities for catering to banquets, conventions and dances. It will be thoroughly modern and fireproof throughout and its handsome design will make it a beautiful as well as useful addition to the most notable of the city's buildings. The architects are John S. Archibald, Montreal, one of Canada's greatest designers, and John Schofield, architect of the Canadian National Railways, Montreal. Mr. Archibald and Mr. Schofield have collaborated on such outstanding buildings as the recent addition to the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa; the hotels of the Canadian National Railways now under construction at Halifax and Vancouver, as well as on a number of other buildings which are famous throughout the country for the charm of their design.

Here's What Pretty Los Angeles Miss Does In Her "Sunkist" Sea-going Bugs

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Although Loretta Turnbull is only a seventeen-year-old high school girl, already she has been named Woman's National Outboard Motorboat racing champion in the Class C division.

Not that she confines her activities to the woman's division, not at all. The best male skippers that the country has to offer frequently go down to defeat when Loretta takes the tiller of her "Sunkist Kid II." At the national hydroplane racing championships, held at Lake Elsinore recently, Loretta earned her title by defeating Helen Henschell, recognized international champion. Miss Henschell was said to have been in top form and was only defeated by superior piloting.

ON FIRST PLACE. It was at this meet that Loretta won the first place cup in the men's class D event, piloting her own class C boat. Not only was she entering into competition with the best male pilots in this country, but she was running a class C boat, a much lighter and slower craft than those of the other entries.

Loretta has little time for any sports other than that of put-a-putting. In the two years she has competed in these waters, she has collected eighteen cups, most of which have been won in men's events. She is holder of time records for women in the one, five, seven and a half and ten-mile runs, and has come within split seconds on several occasions of breaking national records set by men.

RATHER DANGEROUS. "Yes, I do believe outboard racing is rather dangerous," she replied in answer to a question. "I have been rammed and spilled several times. I have been thrown out by making a turn too fast, and believe me, when one hits the water from a boat traveling forty miles an hour, the impact is terrific. The excitement of its gets me though, and I intend to keep at it until I find a sport that offers more thrills."

"With the advent of higher compression motors of greater weight and capacity, I acquired the 'Hezy-Tate,' which in turn was discarded for the 'Ev-Gum,' the boat that brought me the Mott sweepstakes cup in the race around Catalina Island last summer."

Although Loretta holds most of the honors in the Turnbull family for motor boat racing she doesn't hold them all. Rupert Turnbull, fifteen, drives the "Sunkist Kid II," and Raymond Turnbull, who is but thirteen years old, holds the tiller on the "Sunkist Kid I."

"Racing is hard on boat hulls as well as skippers, as they are continually getting smashed up or sprung. In two years I have had seven boats. The first was the 'Apple Sauce,' which I drove in the Catalina Channel race. Then I became owner of the 'Spirit of Bronchitis,' so named because of the bronchial cough of the motor. It served me well during 1927."

"HEZY-TATE." "With the advent of higher compression motors of greater weight and capacity, I acquired the 'Hezy-Tate,' which in turn was discarded for the 'Ev-Gum,' the boat that brought me the Mott sweepstakes cup in the race around Catalina Island last summer."

Old Country Cricket

London, Aug. 14.—Gloucestershire defeated Northamptonshire at Clifton College, Bristol, in an English county cricket match yesterday, by seven wickets. Northants scored 122 and 118, and Gloucestershire 156 and 88 for three wickets.

Worcestershire had an easy time with Gloucestershire at Kidderminster, winning by an innings and 150 runs. Leicestershire piled up the great score of 551 for seven wickets and declared, and Worcestershire's replies consisted of 201 for eight wickets (declared), and 107 and 294. Nichol and V. Fox staged a good stand in Worcestershire's second innings, the former getting 83 and the latter 63. Coleman got four Worcestershire second-inning wickets for 57 runs.

Kent's chances of getting to the top of the championship table received a setback when it was defeated by Sussex by 177 runs. The feature of the Sussex game was the great innings of Prince Duleep Singh, who batted out 115 and 248 runs. Scores were: Sussex, 428 and 381 for eight wickets (declared); Kent, 398 and 244.

Derbyshire took a first-inning lead on Nottinghamshire at Nottingham. Derbyshire scored 457 for eight wickets and declared, and 50 for two wickets, while Nottinghamshire got 355.

POWER COMPANY PLAN OPPOSED

Adams River Lumber Company Object to License Application

Kamloops, Aug. 14.—At a sitting of the British Columbia Water Board here the application of the West Kootenay Power Company for a license to develop Adams River was heard and objections were made by the Adams River Lumber Company, represented by Ernest Clark, barrister, Kamloops. The city of Kamloops, also represented by Mr. Clark in the absence of F. J. Fulton, K.C., city solicitor, made no objections. Counsel stated that as Kamloops was particularly interested in that development the city would like to stipulate that it would have the right to buy power from the company. Lorne Campbell, manager of the West Kootenay Company, replied emphatically that this company was out to get all the business available and if Kamloops wanted to purchase power the company was ready to supply it. The Adams River Lumber Company pointed out that the river had long been used for floating logs down and they feared that development for power might interrupt their business. The board has not yet given a decision on the application.

Weather Conditions Show Little Change; May Have Showers

Weather conditions unchanged, with only a slight possibility of light showers in the evening, were indicated in the report issued by F. Napier Denison of Gonzales Hill Observatory, at noon to-day.

Rain had fallen on the west coast and at Prince Rupert, the weatherman stated, and there was an indication of possible thunder showers in the interior of the Province. When speaking of the possibility of storms in the interior, Mr. Denison said he did not think they would remove the fire hazard there. Along with the thunder, if storms should arise, would come lightning, he pointed out. This would in all probability prove a menace as lightning fires were dangerous in the heavily-timbered country. The mercury dropped two degrees from the point is maintained yesterday at noon. To-day the reading stood at sixty-seven degrees. Cooling winds from the Straits were responsible for the drop.

Several small grass and bush fires required the attention of the fire department yesterday. The corner of Cedar Hill Road and Haulaia Street was visited last night and a small blaze extinguished, while another at the intersection of Hillside Avenue and Cedar Hill Road was attended later.

Those who adopted the instalment plan of paying their Dominion income tax for 1928 are reminded that the third instalment is due and payable on August 31, and that the Act provides penalty interest of four per cent per annum (additional to the regular rate of six per cent per annum), which applies on any amounts unpaid by the due instalment date.

The Glee Temple Shrine Band, by kind permission of Illustrious Potentate Walter Loney, will give a concert of popular and classical music to-night at 8 o'clock on the steps of the Parliament Buildings. B. Fisher.

The annual picnic of St. Paul's Presbyterian Sunday School will be held at Elk Lake on Saturday afternoon next. Buses will leave the church at 2 o'clock. Parents and friends who wish to accompany the children should be at the starting point at 1:45 o'clock, as the buses will leave promptly. On the return trip the buses will leave Elk Lake at 7:30 o'clock. A good programme of games and races is being arranged. All friends of the congregation are invited.

In the Sons of England Hall to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the judging of the drill competition between the drill teams of Lodge Princess Alexandra No. 18 and Lodge Princess No. 32, D.O.E., will be performed by the most worthy grand vice-president, Mrs. Peterson, of Edmonton. The trophy is a handsome cup, donated by D.D.G.P. Hatchcock. The regular meeting will be held at 8 o'clock sharp, to which an invitation is extended to the officers and members of Lodge Princess No. 32, D.O.E.

Additional premises have been taken for the British-Island Association's bookroom and lending library on the first floor (upper level) of the Block, Yates and Broad Streets. This will be opened by a gathering for prayer this evening at 8 o'clock, and a Bible address will be given on Friday of each week at 8 p.m. by E. Richards, in the same place. BIGGEST YEAR AT JASPER PARK

Walter S. Thompson Says Lodge Accommodation Has Been Taxed to Capacity

Never was the popularity of Jasper Park more emphasized than during the present season, says Walter S. Thompson, director of publicity for the Canadian National Railways, who is in the city to-day from Montreal via the Rocky Mountain resort.

"Jasper Park Lodge now has accommodation for 600 guests and this season we have been unable to accept reservations for all the visitors seeking to stay over the week," said Mr. Thompson at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The mountain resort will be taxed to its capacity next week with the opening of the Canadian amateur golf championship tournament at Jasper. Mr. Thompson will leave here Friday for Jasper with Harry W. Anderson, editor of The Toronto Globe, and also a party of Coast newspapermen who will cover the golf championships.

Mr. Thompson was with Sir Henry Thornton's party at Edmonton, and came on to the Coast with Mr. Anderson and Paul Bilkey, editor of The Montreal Gazette.

The president's party will be in Victoria to-morrow week.

TWO VICTORIANS WIN PRIZE AWARDS

For painting sets of Shredded Wheat alphabet inserts in a July competition conducted by the Shredded Wheat Company, Niagara Falls, two Victorians have been awarded prizes for $2 each. Charlie Siddall, 320 Moss Street, and Romaine Grant, R.M.D. 4, Terra Nova Victoria, are the winners. Their sets were considered among the best received during July, according to G. Oliva, New York advertising manager of the company.

NEW SERVICE IS EXPECTED TO PROVE POPULAR

Honolulu Call By C.P.S.S. Given Stamp of Approval, Says J. J. Forster

Recently Returned With H. B. Beaumont After Investigating New Route

J. J. FORSTER

"Inclusion of Honolulu in the westbound service of Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited to the Orient will assuredly prove popular with the traveling public," said J. J. Forster, steamship general passenger agent for the company, with headquarters at Vancouver, who is in Victoria to-day for the first time since his tour of investigation to China, Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Forster, accompanied by H. B. Beaumont, steamship general passenger agent at Montreal, recently made the trip to the Orient and returned via Eastern Railway, chiefly to investigate the possibilities of the new route.

JAPAN ALSO

All the Empress liners, including the new Empress of Japan, now building on the Clyde and scheduled to be commissioned for service on the Pacific next June, will make the westward call at Honolulu. The new schedule will add three and a half days to the westbound trip of nine days to the Orient, giving a full day at Honolulu. The company plans to still maintain its eastbound express steamship service of less than nine days between Japan and British Columbia ports, said Mr. Forster.

A new trans-Pacific record, which is at present held by the company's fleet, will in all probability be established when the liner Empress of Japan enters the service next summer.

The routing of the C.P.R. ships westbound via Honolulu, which decision was reached by the company's recommendations made by Messrs. Forster and Beaumont, is being hailed with approval on both sides and in the centre of the Pacific.

Mr. Forster predicts a phenomenal increase in travel between the Orient and this coast within the next few years. While in the Orient, Messrs. Forster and Beaumont investigated every phase of the travel situation and penetrated into Manchuria as far as Harbin, where they were entertained by the vice-president of the Chinese Eastern Railway, who, they discovered, was a student with the C.P.R. in his earlier days.

Mr. Forster is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

GLOBE EDITOR OBSERVANT OF PROGRESS HERE

H. W. Anderson of Toronto Makes His First Western Tour in Seventeen Years

Enjoyed Fishing Trip at Brentwood Bay and Leaves To-day on Island Tour

Sizing up the rapidly advancing west from a new angle, Harry W. Anderson, editor of The Toronto Globe, returned to Victoria yesterday afternoon for the first time in seventeen years.

The directing genius of the influential Toronto daily is mindful and keenly observant of western progress, but he did not come out here to remind the people of British Columbia of its unbounded natural resources, of its progressive spirit, or of its brilliant future.

"You people out here know about all that much better than I do," said Mr. Anderson.

WESTERN PICTURE
 He said that he was observing, inquiring and photographing in his mind's eye a true picture of this western country which, he added, was destined to have such a commanding influence on the affairs of Canada and the British Empire within the next few years.

"I want to be able to tell the people back home about it," he explained. "They are the ones who need to be told."

"It is seventeen years since I was last on the Coast and there have been some remarkable changes in that time," said Mr. Anderson.

GOES UP ISLAND
 The Toronto Globe editor is determined to see more of Vancouver Island this time.

To-day he set out for Nanaimo, Courtenay and other points up the Island in company with Walter S. Thompson, publicity chief of the Canadian National Railways, and George I. Warren, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and publicity commissioner here.

ON FISHING TRIP
 "This is what I call a real fishing expedition," declared Mr. Anderson yesterday after he had boarded a powerful launch in Brentwood Bay in company with Messrs. Thompson and Warren and B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Times.

The anglers reported an enjoyable trip and returned with a catch that came within the limitation of the fishing regulations.

Mr. Anderson will be in Victoria until the latter part of the week, enjoying what he terms a newspaperman's holiday.

Although he guides the destiny of such an influential newspaper as The Toronto Globe, Mr. Anderson says he is still a reporter at heart.

Before returning east he will visit Jasper Park on the main line of the Canadian Pacific system.

With the party, on reaching the Coast, was Paul Bilkey, editor of The Montreal Gazette.

Mr. Bilkey, however, left Victoria yesterday on his return east. He was quite jubilant over his capture of a twenty-five-pound spring salmon at Brentwood on Monday.

HOPFIELD TREK STARTS SOON

Seventeen Hundred Pickers Commence Work at Sumas August 20

Vancouver, Aug. 14--First units of forces which will aggregate 1,700 persons will invade the hopfields of Sumas prairie on August 20, according to arrangements now being completed by J. H. McVety, superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada. The harvest of hops will commence at Sumas a few days before picking begins at Sardis and Chilliwack.

Reports received by Mr. McVety indicate a hop crop of more than average volume and far larger than last year. The foliage is light and the picking will be easier than last year.

IMPORTANT C.N.R. CHANGES

The appointment of a vice-president in charge of the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in Winnipeg, was the outstanding feature of a number of important changes in the operating department personnel of the company announced to take place on August 1st. Three of the chief officers concerned are shown in the photographs. In the centre is A. E. Warren, formerly

TO INVESTIGATE FRUIT INDUSTRY'S PROBLEMS

Fruit problems in British Columbia have caused the Provincial Government concern for some time past and a commission has been appointed to see what can be done to relieve the situation. In the above picture are shown W. Sanford Evans, commissioner (right), and J. G. Thomson, secretary and freight rates expert, who will conduct the investigations. They will give considerable study to the fruit problems in the Okanagan district.

HOP PICKERS TO REGISTER

Between 200 and 300 Pickers Will Be Required From Victoria and Vicinity

Between 200 and 300 hop pickers will be required from Victoria and vicinity to aid in the harvest of the big crop now maturing in mainland fields, it was stated today by Hamilton Crisford, superintendent of the Victoria branch of the Employment Service of Canada.

Between 1,400 and 1,500 pickers will be required in all, but many will be furnished from Vancouver and New Westminster. Registrations may be made at the Victoria office, for picking estimated to start between August 20 and 22.

Reports from the hop fields show that an unusually heavy crop is maturing and that owing to light foliage this year picking will be easier and more productive for the picker. Most of the owners of hop fields supply housing and other accommodation for the pickers and some supply part board as well. Average pickers may make between $2.25 and $4 a day and experienced hands do better than that in a good crop year.

Close on 300 pickers will be accepted from this district, it is stated, but registration should be made now. The office of the Employment Service of Canada is located at the northeast corner of Langley and Broughton Streets.

Liquor Raids In Illinois

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 14 (A.P.)—Raids on sixteen alleged saloons in eleven communities in Monroe and Randolph counties, Illinois, by federal prohibition agents from the East St. Louis office, resulted in the arrest of twenty-one persons, including George Lewis, mayor of Valmeyer. Lewis gave $4,000 bond before U.S. Commissioner Felson here yesterday.

Several of the hamlets were practically depopulated while relatives and bondsmen accompanied defendants before the United States commissioner here. The raids followed a visit of an under-cover agent two weeks or more ago. It was said to be the first of several raids.

SAYS GOVERNMENT NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR PROSPERITY

Smithers, B.C., Aug. 14.—Hon. R. B. Bennett is en route this morning to Prince George. Late last night, after a speech during a very brief stopover, the Conservative chieftain entrained for Prince George where he speaks tonight.

Protesting against the claims of the Dominion Government for responsibility for any prosperity in Canada, Mr. Bennett pointed out the amount of $1,360,000,000 was received in the main from the sale of our forests, mines, fisheries and seas. With enhancing the sale or increasing the production of the commodities, the Government at Ottawa had little or nothing to do. This credit was due to the Governments of the different provinces and the efforts of the Canadian people.

FIND BODY OF KIDNAPPED GIRL

Minneapolis Police Prosecuting Search For Aged Moron

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—Tied in a gunnysack, the body of a girl apparently about twelve or thirteen years of age, was found in South Minneapolis today. Her hands were bound and she apparently had been strangled.

Two lieutenants, William C. Hoag and William Stokes, found the body and notified police. They summoned Mr. and Mrs. Andrew K. Aune, whose daughter, Dorothy, has been missing since yesterday, in an attempt to identify the body.

Police Captain Inar Jonassen said the slaying seemed to be the crime of a moron. The child, he said, apparently was lured in an automobile, attacked and slain. Her body was bound in sacks, held together by a wire. Police started a search for a middle-aged man seen loitering about the neighborhood of the Aune home for several days. Sylvia Aune, a sister of Dorothy, told police she had seen the man several times, driving around and trying to entice girls into his automobile.

RIVAL WIVES

SERVICE INC.

"Iris, please!" Morgan interrupted sternly, but with a betraying tone of pity in his voice. "I'm more sorry than I can say that you could not be reached before the suit was filed, but I give you my word that it is perfectly legal and that Nan is my lawful wife."

"Nan? Nan?" Iris cried, her voice rising on hysterical laughter. "Nan? Oh, oh!" What started as laughter rose and rose until it was a nerve-shattering scream.

Then, abruptly, when Nan felt that human ears could no longer endure the agony of that dreadful assault, the sound broke off. Iris's clenched hands, which had been flung above her head, dropped suddenly, wavered. Then, before either Nan or her husband could move to give her help, the tall, fragile body crumpled, fell in a heap at John Curtis Morgan's feet.

"Nan! She's fainted!" Morgan called hoarsely, as he dropped to his knees. "Brandy—quick! The sideboard! I'll carry her into the living-room!"

Nan was too sick and dazed to obey quickly, but somehow she managed to find the brandy bottle, spilled some into a glass, caught up from the breakfast table her untouched glass of water, ran with them jerkily on icy feet. But just on the threshold of the living-room she halted involuntarily. Her husband had laid the unconscious body of his former wife upon the big couch and was kneeling beside her, his head bowed upon her breast, his hands locked above his head in a gesture of such profound despair that Nan's heart cried out in a passionate prayer for unconsciousness for herself.

As if that prayer had reached him, instead of the God to which it had been directed, John Curtis Morgan suddenly raised his head and turned it toward the door where Nan stood. In his eyes was no recognition of the girl as his wife, only a wild urgency. "For God's sake, hurry! I'm afraid she's dead!"

Nan stood beside him, watching with that queer grave aloofness which had come upon her as his shaking hands held the tiny glass of brandy to Iris's pale, parted lips. She did not speak. What could she possibly say that would help him now? But when Iris's bronze lashes began to flutter against her almost transparent white cheeks, Nan quietly moved out of range of Iris's returning vision, took her place at the end of the couch, her grave eyes fixed in an unflinching stare upon her husband's ravaged face.

A white hand rose feebly, wavered, then fluttered to rest upon Morgan's black-and-silver head.

"Such a horrid dream, Jack," a thread of a voice whispered. "I knew all the time I was dreaming, but I couldn't wake myself up. Dear, silly Jack!" The long white fingers rumbled his hair feebly.

With a groan of sheer agony the man dropped his head to his breast again. Nan knew he did not even remember that she was there. The thread-like voice went on:

"So tired, Jack—so tired! Poor Iris has been awfully sick. Did you know? So sick! Tried to—commit suicide. So sick, Jack! . . . Want? you, Jack. So lonely! Ashamed to come home, but I did—I came home. The thread spun itself gossamer-fine and broke; the eyelids fluttered down over the blue-green eyes.

"Oh, my God!" The words were wrung from the man on a sob that shook his body.

"Jack! Silly Jack!" There was a ghost of a laugh. "Everything's all right. Iris has come back to you. You're glad, aren't you, Jack? In that horrid dream you told me you'd divorced me and married Nan Carroll. Wasn't that a foolish dream, Jack?"

The long white fingers twined about a lock of the man's hair, tugged at it with feeble playfulness, which suddenly became frantic as his head remained bowed on her breast. "It was just a dream, wasn't it, Jack? Tell me!"

Suddenly, though how she knew she could not have told to save her life, Nan was sure that Iris Morgan was shamming that the fainting spell had been faked, just as this feebleness of voice and hand, this childlike prattling of a "horrid dream" were faked—for the purpose which had been so completely accomplished—of bringing John Curtis Morgan to his knees.

She might have known—she told herself with that queer, aloof calm that had descended upon her—that Iris would fight like this. What other weapon had been left to her? Well—Nan shrugged mentally—it seemed to be a very effective weapon. Odd how little plan she felt; just an absorbed, grave curiosity, as if she were looking upon the melodramatic second act of a drama whose conclusion she could not guess. Her queerly aloof mind elaborated the metaphor: "A modern problem play entitled 'Rival Wives,' starring Iris Morgan, with a notable cast, including John Curtis Morgan and Nan Carroll Morgan."

She felt a smile twist at her lips, wondered "Am I going crazy? Or am I just having what Iris calls a 'horrid dream'?"

But if it was a dream her husband's voice—or was he Iris's husband, really?—before she realized what she was doing, Nan fled from the living-room, found herself shut into the library the receiver of the phone pressed hard against her ear, a frantic hand shaking the hook.

"Crescent 3400," she gasped into the mouthpiece, and leaned back in her husband's desk chair, shuddering and trembling as she waited for an answer. "Dr. Black, please! . . . Oh, this is Nan Carroll, Dr. Black—I mean Mrs. John Curtis Morgan," she corrected herself. The very speaking of the name acted as a powerful stimulant. The trembling ceased suddenly. "Can you come at once, Doctor? . . . No, no! It is—Mrs. Iris Morgan. . . . Yes! I can't explain now, she's been ill. I want you to come, please, and take her to a hospital. Can you take her in your car? . . . No, she doesn't need an ambulance. The strangling laugh must have started the doctor. . . . At once, please, Doctor! Thank you. And will you make her go to the hospital whether she wants to go or not? Oh, hurry!"

It was several minutes before she had sufficient command of herself to dare return to the scene she had fled. Her husband was still on his knees beside his former wife, but now his head was bowed upon his hands, not upon her breast. Iris was speaking, her voice no longer feeble.

"Look at me, Jack! Oh, you don't dare look at me and tell me you don't love me. That unspeakable girl has wormed herself into your life, trapped you. I tell you—your marriage isn't legal! I'll make the courts annul it—you belong to me!"

"John!" Nan called from the library door. The man dropped his hands, stared at her as if he did not recognize her. "Iris is coming right over to take Iris to the hospital. It's getting late, dear. Hadn't you better leave for the courthouse? You're on open the Blackhall case today, you know."

Smart Doings of Animals

Cat-bird Begs for Worms
The cat-bird, one of the most intelligent of the feathered tribe, is more expert than most of his kind in letting his wants be known.

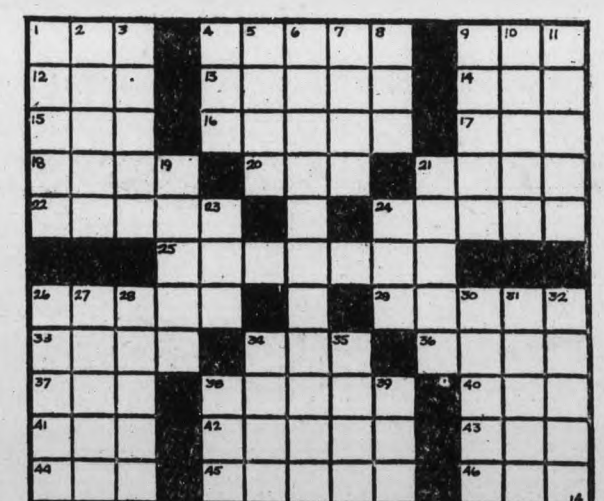

Olive Thorne Miller had a cat-bird which flew at will about her study. When he got hungry, he would go to her desk, where she kept a cup with some worms in it which she fed to him with tweezers. Perching on the books, he would look first at the author and then at the cup. If a worm was not given him, he would open and close his bill and jerk his tail impatiently.

But he was too good-mannered, apparently, to try to help himself.

New England Lad Began Early Shipping Career

Patrick Johnson, a lad in his teens, was going on a long journey. He stood before his employer to receive his final orders.

The lad had gone to work at fifteen in the offices of a New England merchant. He had thrown himself in the work, and in three years was already considered a right-hand man in the office. Then, suddenly, the head of the firm had decided to send the boy on one of his cargo ships going to the West Indies.

"You will watch this ship carefully," said the merchant.

The boy nodded his head gravely, and waited to hear more.

His employer went on to explain that he had been having trouble with this particular boat. He was afraid that the captain was a bad manager. He was not sure about the cause of the trouble, and so he was sending the lad along to watch and to report.

"Use your own judgment," he said. "If you think it necessary, you may take charge of the ship, in my name."

The boy who was given such an important position grew up to be one of the founders of commerce along the North Atlantic Coast. He helped to start the trade with India. He also founded cotton mills and built the first railroad out of Boston. He was born 149 years ago to-day.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Busy Wren

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was sick. But don't be afraid. He wasn't very ill and what he had wasn't catching. That is the old rabbit gentleman caught the sickness himself, but he couldn't give it to anybody else to catch.

"Though for the matter of that," sighed poor Uncle Wiggily when Dr. Possum came to see him, "for the matter of that I have plenty of sickness to give away if anybody wants it. So if you know of anybody, Doctor, who wants some—"

"Oh, no! No, indeed!" exclaimed the animal doctor as he laid out some pink and green pills on the table beside Uncle Wiggily's bed. "You are quite welcome to keep all the sickness you have. But you will soon be better. In fact, you aren't very ill at all. You stayed out in the hot sun too long when the Bob Cat caught you, and now you must rest in the shade."

Uncle Wiggily sat in his easy chair.

"It's too bad he had to be taken ill just now," said Mrs. Longears. "He and I were going to take the rabbit children on a picnic. Now we can't."

"Oh, hop right along and don't mind me," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am sure you and Nurse Jane can look after the children on the picnic as well as I could. And I'll be all right here alone."

"Of course he will," said Dr. Possum.

"I'll stay and take care of Uncle Wiggily," offered Nurse Jane.

"I don't see how I can manage all the children alone," said Uncle Wiggily's wife. "I'll need you with me, Nurse Jane."

"Of course," said Mr. Longears. "Go along, Janie. I'll be all right here, now that Dr. Possum has left some medicine."

"And if anything happens I'll look after Uncle Wiggily," sang a jolly little voice up in a tree.

"Who are you?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I am a bird—Mr. Wren," was the answer. "I have my nest in this tree near Uncle Wiggily's bungalow and I'll take care of him while you are on the picnic."

"Thank you," said the rabbit, looking at the little brown bird.

"How nice it will be," said Mrs. Longears. "Mr. Wren will look after Uncle Wiggily and you and I, Nurse Jane, will look after the children. So come along to the picnic."

Nurse Jane looked at the brown bird and said:

"It is very kind of you, Mr. Wren, but I have always heard that you are such a busy bird that I don't see how you are going to have time to look after Mr. Longears with all else you must do. How about it?"

"Yes, I am a busy bird," answered the tiny creature, for, excepting the humming birds, there are few smaller than the wren. He is very tiny, but a sweet singer, and oh, so busy! "But I can keep watch over Uncle Wiggily," went on Mr. Wren, "and I can sing,

To-morrow's Horoscope

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1929

Malefic planets dominate to-day, according to astrology, which reads signs of evil omen in the horoscope.

The rule is not favorable to certain lines of industry and discontent among workers appears to be pressed.

Under this way it is wise to remain passive and not to make complaint or demand reforms, astrologers declare.

Patience should be cultivated in homes as well as in shops and offices while this direction of the stars continues.

For those engaged in big enterprises, seeming obstacles may arise under this rule of the planets, but they should be ignored.

It is wise to delay important initiative or far-reaching efforts until a more propitious way prevails.

It should be a fairly fortunate day to begin a long journey, especially if it is made by water.

Again all interests appear to be most favorably guided and protected by the stars.

The evening of this day should be auspicious for planning or for careful consideration of perplexing problems.

There is a sign read as presaging many sudden fortunes before the end of the year.

New excitement regarding gold mines may revive old memories of western boom days, the seers prophesy.

Warning against the poison of fatigue is stressed by those who read the stars and long have foretold the increase in the number of sudden deaths.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of unexpected and even dramatic experiences in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be forceful in character, intensely ambitious and tremendously courageous.

Napoleon Bonaparte was born on this day, 1769. Others who had this birthdate were E. Stone, 1848, journalist; Abram Joseph Ryan, 1859, poet; John Torrey, 1796, early biologist.

and gather worms and bugs for my little birds. My wife will help me rather bugs," he went on, "but as for singing, I shall have to do most of that myself."

I suppose you children know that it is the daddy birds who do most of the singing. The mother birds are so busy laying eggs that they never had time to learn to sing.

"Now, Mrs. Longears," went on Mr. Wren, perching upon a tree branch over the bungalow door, "you hop right along to the picnic woods with Nurse Jane and the children, and I'll look after Uncle Wiggily. Have a good time!"

"All right," agreed the rabbit lady. "Come, children! Come, Nurse Jane!" she called. "All you will have to do for Uncle Wiggily," she told Mr. Wren, "will be to see that he stays in the shade and takes the medicine Dr. Possum left."

"I'll do it," sang the wren.

Then the little rabbit children, about forty-sixteen of them, hopped off to the picnic woods with their mother and Nurse Jane, leaving Mr. Wren to look after Uncle Wiggily.

Wiggily sat in his easy chair in the shade of a grape vine, now and then reaching out his paw to take a pink or a green pill. As for Mr. Wren, you never saw such a busy bird. First he flew down out of the tree, then he flew back into the tree. Then he sang again, next he hopped on Uncle Wiggily's chair and said:

"Take a pink pill." Then he sang some more and said: "Take a green pill." Oh, such a busy wren! And right after that something happened. I shall tell you what in the next story it will be about Uncle Wiggily and the Alligator. And I do hope you can stop the ice pick from pulling tacks out of the cellar stair carpet and throwing them at the goldfish.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 14.—Joseph Rue, American Association wire, is in a hospital here to-day suffering from concussion of the brain received in a free-for-all fist fight at Neil Park late yesterday, during the ninth inning of a Columbus-Milwaukee game. A pop bottle, thrown by spectators who rushed from the stands when Plate Umpire Larry Goetz ordered the Columbus bench cleared of all players except those actually in the game, is believed to have caused Rue's injury. Joe Carr, baseball magnate, stopped a flying fist with his jaw and several other unidentified bruises before police could quell the spectators.

Norwegian Freighter Hesperos Still Aground at Mouth of the Fraser River

After being aground on Dungeness Spit, near Port Angeles, for several hours this morning, the Dimon Line freighter Pacific Fir came off at 8:57 o'clock, according to information received here to-day from Seattle. She is now proceeding to the Sound port, where she will be surveyed.

Bound from Los Angeles to Seattle and Tacoma, the Pacific Fir grounded on the spit in the early morning mist and for which hung over the strait. The tug Wanderer of Port Angeles rushed to the assistance of the larger ship, but it is thought her own steam pulled her off. The spit bottom is soft, largely composed of sand, and it is thought that the ship is not damaged. The Pacific Fir is employed in carrying freight between Pacific Coast ports.

STILL AGROUND
The Norwegian freighter Hesperos is still aground at the mouth of the Fraser River. The Pacific Salvage Company's branch office in Vancouver has salvage equipment and men working on the beached steamer, and part of the cargo is now being lightered. It is now expected she will be floated undamaged on the high tide to-morrow afternoon. This morning the sea was calm and the work of unloading the cargo was proceeding without delay.

The Hesperos grounded Tuesday morning when en route from New Westminster to Bellingham. She had about a month in Vancouver before being grounded. The ship is now being worked on board at the time of the mishap.

BRITISH SEA HERO LEAVES WITH COLOMBO

Capt. C. C. Dobson Performed Daring Deeds During War; Awarded V.C. and D.S.O.

British Cruiser Left This Morning on Return to Bermuda After Lengthy Visit

H.M.S. Colombo left Esquimalt harbor this morning at 10 o'clock on her return to her base at Bermuda, and with her went one of the British Empire's distinguished naval heroes, Capt. C. C. Dobson, V.C., D.S.O., who is commander of the trim fighting cruiser.

Capt. Dobson was decorated with the Distinguished Service Order in 1915 and the Victoria Cross in 1919. Since joining the British navy when a boy, Capt. Dobson has had a brilliant military career, and has proved his worth in many a sea encounter. He has served on most of the ships of the British navy, and since the war has had charge of a number of them. The visit which terminated this morning was his first as a captain to this port, although he was at Esquimalt in his earlier days.

Capt. Dobson was awarded the D.S.O. for an action in 1915. A German submarine showed up in the North Sea when Capt. Dobson was commanding the British submarine C-27. Attaching a fishing trawler to his ship as a decoy, Dobson waited until the fishing craft. The British crew then torpedoed the enemy craft. Ten of the Germans were saved.

In Capt. Dobson's second exploit in 1919, Russian "Reds" figured. "Two big Russian Red ships were proving a menace to the British fleet," Capt. Dobson stated recently. "To attack them we had to enter an enclosed basin at Kronstadt, which was guarded by machine guns and forts on all sides. With eight coastal motor boats we set out at night preceded by aeroplanes. All the planes engaged the attention of the forts and slipped through the fortifications and put the two warships out of action."

HERE SINCE MAY
The Colombo has been in British Columbia waters since May 23, on her arrival in Esquimalt harbor from her base at Bermuda, where she is attached to the West Indies squadron of the British fleet. She has been in Esquimalt altogether about a month, in Vancouver about two weeks, and has made calls at a number of Island and mainland ports as far north as Prince Rupert. All she spent in Seattle, where she represented British ships at the Fleet Week celebrations there.

From Victoria the Colombo will proceed to Portland, and before reaching the Red Sea will call at San Pedro, Catalina Island, and Panama Canal ports. Four weeks will elapse before she is back at her base.
